The Westroyd Park

The Westroyd Park is a well-maintained public garden along the lane where I live. Random benches hide behind trees and bushes, and the singing of the birds stands above the roaring of the suburb around. I used to go there with my dog, like most of the people living nearby.

One of the familiar users of the park I used to see was an Irish woman, of about my age, with a small dog always on the move. Her name is Aisling, meaning, “dream” or “vision” in Irish, and from the time I came to know her I knew the solution for all my investigation was just clear crystal in her eye.

We loved chatting of Art and Humanities, Freedoms and Philosophies, but at the end we both knew our daily goal was to survive the rain, like the trees and the bushes in the park.

Not far from the bench where we used to sit, inside the Park is a prominent House with the Coats of Arms, and sometime we played pretending Charles Darwin or Isaac Newton was living there, fuelling mysteries in life and evolution, chemistry and astronomy.

Then, one day she came out with the idea of writing a book, something to remind us of our educated conversations. “We can name it ‘The Catholic Satanic Verses’. I know you are after it! Come on!” she said, and since that day we have been searching for uncharted thoughts in education, assembling a map from the controversies that made our history since the ancient past, and the contradictions emerging from the textbooks.

Day-by-day, it was a point-to-point analysis, cleaning our education from false myths and parasites making their life out of our blood and our freedoms, and day-by-day meeting with Aisling become a part of my daily life.

Aisling was living a few minutes walk from the Park, with her dog Webster, and her love for him was unconditional; probably the only way she could be loved. This is the early impression I had.

Most of the time she was dressed in rough clothes, very cheap, almost to shield her beauty and sensitivity behind a misleading appearance, and that contrast was so attractive and disarming, so innocent, if the furrows of sorrow like scars and clouds were not to suggest a very different story.

“I know we have something in common, I feel it, but what is it?” I asked myself so many times but I never knew what was behind her tramp-like appearance. May be she was just a tramp, laughing at misery, or simply she was fickle and inconstant but for sure, I cannot doubt it, for a moment I felt her soul, coming close to me, and staying with me for a little while, companion.

The Bible and the Satanic Verses

That morning I made my way to the park earlier than usual but even so Aisling was already there, reading a magazine on the bench. Also the sun in the clear blue sky was promising a beautiful day, and my delight couldn't find any resistance.

"Hi" I said, "What a nice day for a walk in the Park, isn't it?"

"Oh, here you are. I have been waiting for you" she said, closing the magazine and looking up in my direction. "Do you remember the Satanic Verses [\[A1\]](#) of Salman Rushdie?' she asked, with a thoughtful expression. "Would that be possible to do the same controversy about the Bible?"

One of the gardeners was moving the soil around the flowers, and a delicate wind was carrying the perfumes all around, suggesting that our roots may also need some oxygen and attention.

"Sure it is possible," I said, "But already there exist several different versions of the Bible, also stating the opposite of each other, and this is the reason why the Bible is the most controversial book of all. Already there exist several different interpretations of the same text, and also there exist Bibles made of completely different text and meaning. There is no Version of the Bible absolutely true to pick on, like Rushdie did, but really there is a collection of different Bibles contradicting each other, and in this scenario what are Heresies and Blasphemies to some Christians, are Values and Holy Words to other Christians, and they would die for them."

"And what about the Satanic Verses of the Bible? Would that be possible?" she asked again, revealing some impatience and disappointment.

"Sure it is, but it is not exactly the same. For Rushdie it was possible to quote the Quran, but for the Bible [\[W1\]](#) [\[W7\]](#)[\[W37\]](#) what version would you quote? I never heard of the Satanic Verses of the Bible but I am sure someone heard of it, even before the New Testament was ever assembled. For clarity, what would you take into consideration? The Old Testament is not an original Christian writing, and was made long before the arrival of Jesus, long before Christianity ever existed.”

“I know this. I know the Old Testament resemble the Tanakh, the Bible of the Jew. No, I don’t mean the Genesis, or the Old Testament” she said, “I mean the true original Christian Bible, which is the New Testament with the Gospels of the Apostles.”

“Yes but, even if we admitted that Jesus really existed, and was the Son of God, even with this concession if you consider 8 Apostles out of 12 have been wiped out of the New Testament, how could you take into consideration the authenticity of it? Each of the Apostles was a messenger divulging the life of Jesus, this is what the Apostles were all about, advocates and teachers of the new Christian Religion. Each of the Apostles has been narrating and divulged the life of Jesus, and passed on his memories in writing, by himself, or by witnesses or disciples. Each of them had records in writing of their direct memories, with the personal experience and the episodes of the life of Jesus they have witnessed. I believe each of the Apostles had his own Gospel, one way or another, like also Judas and Mary Magdalene had their own, but many more were made. So? How is it now, that there are only 4 Gospels in the New Testament of the Bible? In reality, most of the original Christian experience has been wiped out from the New Testament, and from what is left over it will be difficult to find any Satanic Verses never pointed out before. Unless...”

“Right, I got it” she said, taking over. “There is no comparison with the Satanic Verses, but the controversial points are charted within the several different versions and interpretations of the Bible. And what about listing these differences? Would that make sense in terms of the Satanic Verses?” she asked.

“Perhaps, but the essence of the Satanic Verses of the Bible concerns Philosophy more than Religion, and will go far beyond the interpretation of a few words of the Bible. The meaning of the Satanic Verses of the Bible is not to be found in any version of the Bible, because the matter is not one of Religion but of Philosophy, pushing the intellectual limits of human conscience and comprehension far beyond the limits of the blind belief of Religion. The true heresies don't concern Religion, however we interpret the Bible or the New Testament, but rather concern philosophical doubts and the freedom of having a personal opinion, the freedom of thought, the freedom for curiosity and knowledge, and never mean the Bible or Religion. Eventually one may dispute the arrogance of some intolerant Religious authority pretending to be infallible [\[W2\]](#) and to talk in the name of God, but also in this case the heresies don't concern the Bible but what people do in the name of their Religion.

If you are after the backbone of Christianity, and require an intellectual compass to find secure directions concerning the essence and disputes over the New Testament, you should ask yourself what the Catholic Heresies are, and how the Catholic Heresies could become Catholic Legacy?"

"What?" she asked, with a look of surprise. "What are the Catholic Heresies? And why? The original Christian Legacy is in the New Testament, I can understand that, but I meant the Christian Satanic Verses, not just the Catholic ones. Why the Catholic Heresies now? What is it? Witches and magic?" she asked again, not sure about my answer.

"Because the different Christian Cults have different Values, and the values for one person may be heresies and blasphemies for someone else: Christianity doesn't share the same values. On the other hand the Catholic Heresies are essential to see how the Christian Cults unfolded along the centuries. The Roman Catholic Church has the list of all the heresies they have persecuted throughout history, and from that list it would be easier to see the differences and the Moral Values in discussion, with Saint Peter or Martin Luther perhaps. Forget the strictly religious and theological matters like the nature of God and the Trinity; there are much more important issues to disclose, important to all and not to the believers only.”

“What is it?” she asked confused. “What may be more important than God, in religious matters?”

“Actually there are a few things, like freedom of thought and Justice perhaps, but also Science, Philosophy and the Arts. Over time Religion has become a cultural filter, an instrument of Cultural and Social Control, and this is exactly what happened with Constantine and the Nicaea Council.”

“You are complicating things,” she warned, “I understand from the Catholic perspective the Catholic Heresies are Satanic Verses, but this is a Catholic matter. How does it affect the others?” she asked.

“Take this case for example, where does the Morality of Justice come from? Is it from the codes of the law, or from the Bible? Who is to decide what Justice is, and who is to administer Justice? The men on earth with the codes of the law, or is it rather God in the afterlife? Is it tolerable for someone to pretend to have High Moral Values above the law? Can we expect some Human Justice on earth, or do we necessarily have to wait for God because his disciples pretend the Law of Man is not the true law to obey and rather live outside the law, like a bunch of mobsters and gangsters. Also the Racial Laws of Mussolini had the blessing of the Pope, in writing, justified by the Moral Leadership of the Pope. In other words, is God an excuse to justify and get away with abuses, crimes, genocides and intellectual cleansing? Do you see? Religion is interfering with the Civic values of Equality, with Morality and the social Justice to which all people have the same rights, freedoms and obligations despite their belief or Religion.”

“Oh, yes” she said, “Of course I can see. The Divine Justice of God is far above the human laws and justice. It is a dispute concerning the relative value of man, compared to the absolute value of God. But it is also a dispute undermining the value of the law and equality, and breaking society apart.”

“Yes, exactly. The magnitude of the Cultural devastation that came with Christianity was immense, from Philosophy to the Sciences and the Arts, for millennia until today. Justice is not the only problem, but only one of the aspects. Put the case of Eratosthenes, calculating the circumference of earth 300 years before Jesus was born, 1800 years before the birth of Copernicus. Imagine if you looked in the school textbooks and found no mention of Eratosthenes, but only the modern heroes Copernicus and Galileo. Imagine that the schoolbooks represent the Nicaea Council as a milestone in shaping our current culture and values, while in reality it could only represent the beginning of the dark ages, the foundation of the Catholic Inquisition forewarning the incoming censorship and revisionism we witness in our current schoolbooks.

How could you or anybody explain how the Catholic Heresies became Catholic Legacy? And, if not Philosophy, or Justice or Science, what about the revisionism of the New Testament, vanishing 8 out of 12 Apostles? What is the magnitude of the devastation, and the intellectual cleansing behind all of this? Imagine that the School Programs disregard the Catholic Heresies as marginal aspects of History. Who may be the mastermind behind this System of Values?

No, the Catholic Heresies don't concern witches and magic, and still today are important even more than we could imagine. We start from the prejudice and preconceptions we learn as mandatory part of the school syllabus. What matter if we glorify Copernicus, or Galileo, if Eratosthenes was erased from history and we cannot even ask the reasons why he was cancelled, like he was a Devil? So I wonder how the Catholic Heresies became Catholic Legacy, including Justice, Philosophy, Science, and the Arts. But above all I wonder about the probability, the likelihood nobody ever asked such simple questions. I wonder, who is to pass the exams? I wonder if the best students, the most inquisitive, have a chance to pass the exams. Is it possible nobody ever asked, and nobody ever noticed such inconsistencies?”

"I understand what you mean. Yes, it is very sad" she agreed, looking at the notes. "This is a version of the truth from the school books; but we know the disciples were not 4, and this is also the reason for the notes we are collecting, pointing out some reflections concerning our expensive education, isn't it?"

"Yes. In my perspective I wish we had a kind of anti-virus or a debugging tool for our school textbooks; a documented reflection to scan and counterbalance the monotony and the contradictions of our education. On the other hand it must be educational, it has to be reasonable and invite reflection; it cannot be just a mockery of the misery of the best education we could buy. It must be substantiated with evidence beyond doubt.

Take this case, this is not in the schoolbooks either. When the early Christians arrived in Rome, Rome was a polytheistic town with its own Gods, and more Gods arrived from all over the provinces. The religious tradition of Rome was polytheism, the Gods were coexisting peacefully, and one God more or less did not make any difference until the Christians arrived, with the pretence that the law of Rome was not the true law to obey but there would be another law to obey above it. The Christians were pretending to have higher moral values, above the law, as if morality and Justice were not to be found in the law but in the Gospels. So, the Christians were in the Coliseum with the lions, not because of religious intolerance but because of their pretence that the law of Rome was not the true law to obey. The religious persecution of the Christians is fiction. Rome was a polytheistic town and didn't have any problem with the Christian God. It was the disrespectful habit of the Christians causing social disorders, undermining of the Law and offending other Cults and Cultures. We can also see today, that this habit has not changed throughout history."

"I see. But, for what reason was Jesus crucified?" she asked.

"Pretty much for this very same reason. Because in the words of Jesus the law of Rome was not the true law to obey, but there would be another law to obey above it. Nevertheless, in ancient Rome, the pre-Christian Gods from all over the provinces were coexisting peacefully and sharing their powers for the public good. Until the Christians arrived, with Monotheism and their Moral Supremacy.”

“Moral Supremacy? What is that?” she asked.

“It is a long story concerning the Supremacy of the Pope, the Bishop of Rome [W60], among the other bishops. It concerns the Moral and Cultural Leadership of the Roman Tradition of Christianity. The foundation of this Primacy, or Supremacy, may be found in Matthew, when Jesus said, “You are Peter, and upon this rock I will build my Church” (Matthew 16:17-19) [B1]. It was Jesus himself who appointed Peter, and for this reason Saint Peter’s Square was made in the Vatican, just in front of the Basilica of Saint Peter. For this reason the Roman Church claims a kind of supremacy, because Saint Peter was in Rome and started it. On the other hand the Primacy, or Supremacy, of Rome was also one of the causes of the schism with the Orthodox tradition, which was unwilling to respect absolute obedience to Rome in matters of Religion; it was another problem dividing more and more the eastern part of the Roman Empire. More recently this very same Moral Supremacy was also adopted by Mussolini to justify the Cultural Supremacy and the Racial Laws he enacted to persecute Apostates and Heretics.”

“The Racial Laws of Mussolini.” she said repeating.

“It was a cultural regime, with its foundation in the Moral pre-eminence of the religious tradition. It was the Church to prepare and provide the Syllabus, and Mussolini simply embraced the Catholic Tradition. He signed the Lateran Treaty with the Vatican, and then, to enforce the Catholic Culture and Tradition against the new political parties demanding no more High Moral Values above the Law, he endorsed the Catholic Education and enacted the Racial Laws, all with the blessing of the Pope [W3]. But primarily the Racial Laws were Cultural Laws, against democrats, liberals, socialists, against every political party supporting the secular values of democracy.

It was a proper intellectual cleansing, a holy war against the values of democracy and the freedom of information.

The 3rd January 1925 [A34][W73] Mussolini made a speech for the murder of the member of parliament Giacomo Matteotti [W74] and with that speech he said that the democratic values had to be found within the Catholic tradition. Then the same day he dismissed the parliament, the freedom of press, the political parties, and persecuted the oppositions as apostates of the faith and enemies of the state.

But no fascist was ever able to state one of these democratic values that would be of Catholic legacy, in fact the democratic values like the freedom of choice and the secular value of justice are the result of the emancipation from the absolute power of the church [W42], and have never been Catholic values but Catholic heresies, and have been persecuted throughout history and continue to this day.

In 1860 the Italian Unification and the Monarchy ended the despotic tyranny of the Absolute Power of the Church. In 1929 Mussolini reinstated the Vatican City [A35][W3], and the alternative system of values transforming the perjury of public officers into acts of devotion and career opportunities.

Still today the students of the bishops can have recommendations for diplomas and degrees they never had, and manage to feel honest with it even after the scam is public knowledge. On the other hand, legitimate students cannot have confirmation of their true academic careers from Italian state universities and their lawsuits are swept into the afterlife. The Minister for Justice reported a backlog of over 9.000.000 legal cases and the reason for this systematic disruption of people rights is to be found in the alternative system of values and the tradition of bribery and blackmail, administrative horrors, perjury and defamation they organise as institutions.

The ancient pre-Christian Romans used to nick name the Catholic as barbarians and sociopaths because of their pretence to be above the law and to undermine other people's rights. Several hundred years later they put this privilege in the Bible, and tried to find followers for their system of abuses, and made Peter and the apostles talk concerning the law of man saying, «But Peter and the Apostles answered, 'We must obey God rather than man'» [B3].

The problem is not only the hundreds and thousands of sexual abuses they perpetrate, but the millions of students they indoctrinate into their double-standard and alternative system of values.

Like Cecile Kyenge and Giulio Regeni we know from the news, and the many thousands they represent, Ministers and consultants of the govern concerning sensitive matter like the democratic values and people rights.

Cecile Kyenge [A15][A16][W48] admitted during a television interview she knew she had no rights for the documents she was asking, that means she had the perception of wrong doing, but nothing compared to the greed and complicity with the democratic mission of the bishop helping whatever idiot was willing to feel comfortable with the recommendations for diplomas and degrees he never had.

Similarly, the mother of Giulio Regeni [A30][W64] is seeking the secular Justice she undermined from the start, with the recommendations of the bishop for diplomas and degrees Giulio actually never had. Giulio in Italy only completed the compulsory education at 13 years of age and then, after 2 years of college in the oratory of the bishop in New Mexico he was at Oxford and then Cambridge consulting the Think Tank and the Oxford Analytica. He was on a holy mission, like Tony Blair and Cambridge Analytica, and the mastermind they represent so well with their actions.

In the end the crucifix in the courtrooms will transform the perjuries and abuses into acts of devotions and career opportunities, in the name of the alternative system of value they impose above the law and people rights.

The 3rd January 1925 [\[A34\]](#)[\[W73\]](#) Mussolini said that the democratic values had to be found within the Catholic tradition, and still today almost 100 years later the parliament, the universities, the news, are all doing exactly the same and for the same reasons. There are plenty of 'good' Catholics from all over the world willing to feel honest with the recommendations of the bishop for diplomas and degrees they never had, and willing to return any favour for it.

But Mussolini didn't need to invent any 'Roman Supremacy', it was already there, but at the time of Saint Peter, when the New Testament of the Bible didn't exist at all, the Moral Supremacy was just word of mouth of St Matthew, he put in writing.

Also a few centuries later, at the time of Constantine and the Nicaea Council, Christianity was still completely undefined and inconsistent; it was literally a word of mouth Religion. From the start, early Christianity was a chaotic proliferation of prophets, different Gospels, different stories about Jesus, and different ways to pray. Then, all these differences become roots for different Religious Cults, turning differences into divisions. So, the need to define how to pray and what to pray, the need to define the liturgy, the theology and the doctrine of the new Cult was increasingly important in order to maintain unity inside the new Cult, but also inside the Roman Empire. In fact the Christian pretence to be above the law and above the other Cults fuelled social disorders, and was undermining the authority of the law. So Constantine took the decision to help the process of definition of the new Cult, he set up the Nicaea Council in 325 AD, and in 331 AD he commissioned Eusebius of Caesarea to prepare 50 copies of The Bible from the original writings available at his time.”
[\[W5\]](#) [\[W6\]](#) [\[W7\]](#)

“So, there was a Bible at the time of Constantine” she said, expectantly.

“Well, Constantine probably wanted to read the Holy Scriptures, but there was no Bible available; nobody before thought to make a Bible out of the Holy Scripture, to preserve them, and today the Bible of Eusebius is not available because all 50 copies are lost. Now it is impossible to know how many books more were available in terms of Gospels and original writings that have been vanished later on, all together with the Bibles of Eusebius.”

“It is hard to believe, but somehow I am not surprised. The most adored book of all, to vanish in thin air. I was actually expecting something like this from the time you said the Catholic Cult was undefined, and the Bible was a pile of different versions and interpretations of something so actually we can say it never existed” she said again, with a baffling smile.

“Well, I am not inventing anything. I am just reporting some contradictions, evidence the schoolbooks partially introduce but never unveil or disclose properly. Anyway, sometime after Constantine the Cult probably changed again because the old Canons didn’t fit the new needs anymore. With time, some books become more important than others, some become inappropriate and have been judged heretical and purged from the Bible as have most of those by the Apostles.

Play this game. One of the points in discussion at the Nicaea Council [\[W39\]](#) was the syllabus, the duration and the program of the catechism in preparation for the sacrament of the Baptism. Clearly the course had a few prerequisites, like students being able to learn and reply in conscience to some easy questions, but nowadays children are baptized at a few weeks of age, and clearly the Act of Choice is not necessary anymore. So, what do you believe may have happened to the Gospels demanding the Act of Choice as a prerequisite for the Baptism? What do you think about the missing Gospels? Bit by bit, from the personal and spiritual experience it once was, Christianity has become the pile of impositions it is now, enforced by Canon Laws [\[W8\]](#), the laws made by the Church, in the name of God. Will they ever understand that the Law of the Church is not the true law to obey, and that there is another law to obey above it?

After the Nicaea Council in 325 A.D. the disputes between the Bishops of the East and West parts of the Roman Empire went on and on, concerning who to pray, and how to pray. Several more Councils have been organized, changing roles and Canons until Christianity become what it is today. But despite several Councils having been organized, the problem concerning true Christianity was never resolved because freedom of conscience has never been tolerated, and the points of the disputes become new Canons, new Laws and new Dogmas, absolute impositions of the Bishop of Rome pretending to have a better understanding of God. Later on, in 1276 A.D., after ages of controversies and disputes, Gregory X [W9] set up the procedure of the 'Conclave' for the election of the Roman Pope because the bishops everywhere were self-electing and self-proclaiming Popes, probably to wind up the Roman pretence of being the only Pope accredited in heaven. Obviously the coexistence of bishops and Popes excommunicating each other was causing even more divisions and schisms within Christianity, so the necessity to structure and discipline the new Cult was really a major problem not only for Constantine but even more for his successors. This situation lasted for a long time, and the Pope John Paul II [W10] in 2001 made the last update to the 'Anuario Pontificio', the Pontifical yearbook with Official List of the Popes of the Roman Catholic Church, adding almost 200 corrections. This is nowadays, isn't it?"

"Wow. I see what you mean about word of mouth and High Moral Values above the law," she said enlightened.

"Just imagine the First Vatican Council was organized in 1869 [W2], at the time of Italian unification, and on that occasion the Pope proclaimed himself infallible. Just consider the arrogance of this moralist above the law. But the point I was to discuss was that, with Constantine and after him, the new Roman Christian Cult gained more and more power and privileges until it was imposed in all provinces as the official Christian Religion of the Empire."

"And what about the early Roman Christian Religion, when Saint Peter and Paul were in Rome? Was it really different from now?" she asked.

"There are several differences, and sure I cannot list them all. First I would say that Rome was a polytheistic town, and the Gods from all over the Empire were coexisting peacefully and sharing their power. But obviously this is not the case of the God of Saint Peter, which was rather challenging for the exclusive worship and seeding the high moral values of the holy war we witness today.

Another very important difference concerns the lost Gospels; in fact more than 50 Gospels [\[W12\]](#)[\[W13\]](#) of the Gnostic Tradition have been rejected by the Catholic Church, but many more have been rejected and vanished, besides those of Saint Peter, Mary Magdalene and Judas.

Don't you wonder why in the New Testament there are only 4 Gospels? And what happened to the others? The Gospel of Peter was condemned as heretical by 200 A.D., and probably the reasons all these Gospels went missing are to be found in the list of the Catholic Heresies, the Index of the Roman Catholic Inquisition, the only Book we can rely on in order to understand the History and the values of Christianity along with the History of the Catholic Church. Keep in mind these are the very same reasons we have a number of Bibles today, stating the opposite of each other."

"Are you sure about the Gospel of Saint Peter" she asked, with an expression of disbelief.

"I wouldn't tell you, if I were not sure. I believe you can find this also in Wikipedia" [\[W14\]](#) I said again reassuring.

"Right. I understand how the Catholic Heresies may help tracking the Satanic Verses of the Bible; I mean the New Testament. The Values and Morality through the different Christian Cults are not the same and have changed throughout history. Yes, the Catholic Heresies well represent a big part of the Satanic Verses of the Bible, and the different versions of the Bible we have today well represent the moral dissent, the moral rebellion against the Roman Church. That pile of different Bibles really stands like a pile of complaints to the Roman Morality, isn't it?"

she asked.

“Yes it is. That pile of Bibles is standing exactly like a pile of complaints” I repeated returning the smile, “That happened because Christianity at its origin was a spiritual experience, was a private experience, was a personal matter of conscience but during the time it become more and more materialistic, ruled by more and more legal procedures and Canon Laws until it become the instrument of Cultural and Social Control it is today.

But at the time of Saint Peter the relationship between God and Men was a personal direct relationship, a personal matter of conscience, and the prayers didn't need a middleman like a priest to intercede to God on their behalf. Saint Peter himself would have perceived the imposition of uncritical obedience a monstrosity, annihilating the personal Act of Choice and Will of the worshipper, and would have condemn the suffocating of personal feelings, precluding the possibility to express and share the inner personal beliefs.

Take the case of Arius and the Arian controversy concerning the nature of the relationship between God and Jesus, the Father and the Son. The controversy found its conclusion during the First Ecumenical Council of Nicaea, when Arius was put to the stake because of his personal belief. Arius was sharing his sincere feelings, but the main reasons to organize the Nicaea Council was not to dispute any controversy, but to stop the Religious disputes all together and for consequence Arius was sacrificed to the Catholic God of Obedience. In other words, it was not the Trinity to be upset by the misconceptions of Arius, but the expectations of the Roman Catholic priests demanding absolute obedience.

The Nicaea Council was just about Control and Obedience, and no personal feelings or understanding were needed anymore. So, by the time of the first Nicaea Council in 325 AD the original spirituality of Christianity was already downgraded to Heresy, a blasphemy to be persecuted and eradicated from Christian History, like most of the Gospels.

The execution of Arius is maybe the first execution at the stake of the Inquisition, but Arius is not the first in the list of the heretics because a few happened before. About 150 years before Nicaea, Saint Peter was already dead but his Gospel was accused of Heresy, for similar reasons to Arius. But Saint Peter was appointed by Jesus to be the First Stone of his Church, and for this reason it is truly Saint Peter who deserves the honour of being the Father of all the Heretics. The execution of Arius was to set the standard for the next centuries and millennia until today, but concerning the honour of launching the long tradition of heresies, that is for Saint Peter himself, the Apostle chosen by Jesus to build his Church.

I worry about being unclear; does it emerge that the Roman Catholic Church has a serious issue with the freedom of conscience of the prayers? Especially the act of being conscious of having a personal opinion is particularly perceived as rebellion against their will and insubordination. But freedom of conscience is part of Human nature, it is built in the nature of mankind, and the pretence of eradicating the freedom of conscience from the human nature is really undermining the Divine Nature of the Creation they pray for. They don't respect the laws of the Creation of their God, they don't respect the Human Nature for what it is, and they don't respect the laws they made and then change at will to better suit them. From wherever you start, Justice, Philosophy, the Science or the Arts, it always turn up the same censorship and revisionism, a pile of nonsense, contradictions, abuses and intellectual cleansing of biblical proportions, with the stamps of the infallibility of the Pope on it [\[W2\]](#).

Definitively, the Roman Catholic Cult is not concerned about the personal spiritual experience of the faithful, but Obedience and Cultural control. That was the reason for Constantine, to keep the Empire Culturally United, and for the same reason after Constantine the Roman Religion has gained more and more power within the Imperial offices, it was levelled and made equal to the Imperial administration, and finally the administration of the Priests took over the offices of the Roman Empire itself, which probably collapsed suffocated by the high moral values above the Laws and Culture of Rome.”

“I understand, it is clear that freedom of thought is truly part of Human nature, not like the Roman Catholic Cult. The freedom of conscience is built in, but Religion is not, and different people have different ideas and the same freedom to believe it” she said again.

“Sure, a human friendly Religion should respect the freedom of conscience, and if we frame the Christianity of Saint Peter [W15], also for the founder of the Catholic tradition was inadmissible, unacceptable to baptize a child unable to understand and to choose with a Free Act of Choice and Will. On the other hand we know that at the time of the Nicaea Council the Gospel of Saint Peter was already condemned as heretical, because of docetism [W16] a heresy concerning the true nature of Jesus, similar to Arius, and later also the few remaining fragments have been rejected as apocryphal. Today only a few words survive of the Gospel of Peter, and we cannot read it anymore.

Also from the minutes of the Nicaea Council we see one of the points in discussion was the catechism, the course in preparation for the Baptism. It is implicit students of the course had to be capable of some understanding, and were not a few weeks old like children baptized today. We know for sure Saint Peter was practicing a different Christianity, and like Arius, Saint Peter would also have been condemned by the Nicaea Council to the stake of the inquisition, maybe because of Heresy but overall because Peter was appointed by Jesus, but not by the Romans.

It is obvious. After Saint Peter the Roman Christian Cult was changed, and after Constantine and the Nicaea Council it was changed again and again, and never in favour of individual spirituality, or the personal experience of the faithful. With time, Roman Christianity became an instrument of social and cultural control, and the pretence of being above the law become a reason of state and was never resolved, like the issue with freedom of conscience was never resolved, despite this freedom being prearranged and built in by the book of nature.

At the time of the Pre-Christian Romans the Gods didn't challenge each other for exclusive worship but rather coexisted peacefully and shared their powers for the public good. The provinces of the Roman Empire used to trade with Rome and maintain their local cultures and deities, but when the imposition of the Roman Catholic Cult arrived, that made it all different, leading to the quick dissolution and collapse of the Empire. The monotheism transformed the Empire into a collection of Barbarians, pagans and heretics to be converted or scrapped."

"Are you saying that Christianity is the cause of the collapse of the Roman Empire?" she asked, with an expression like she couldn't believe it.

"Several reasons are listed by historians. Maybe we can check if any Christian ever listed Christianity within the causes of the fall of the Roman Empire. Nevertheless, with the arrival of Christianity, Roman Culture was changed, the meaning of Justice also changed, the administration changed, freedom in Science, Philosophy, also the meaning of Religion was changed, introducing cultural intolerance and the Holy War of monotheism. Clearly the imposition of Christianity has transformed the Roman Provinces into a collection of heathens and heretics to be converted, but I am sure this is nothing to do with the fall of the Roman Empire, which is still living today through the Christian tradition, or at least this is the opinion of some distinguished historians, very devoted and accredited in the most prestigious Universities. Despite it is apparent they confuse the Catholic Heresies as Catholic Legacy.

Concerning historians and archaeologists we can quote 'Forbidden Archaeology', by Michael Cremona and Richard Thompson [\[A3\]](#)[\[W17\]](#). In their book Cremona and Thompson investigate the mysteries hiding in the underground of the museums, of human fossils hundreds of thousand years old. They also discuss the Knowledge Filter, the method and the process the scientists use to investigate, interpret, and finally confirm the Archaeological findings. Well, apparently, several Archaeological discoveries are stocked in the underground of museums, inaccessible to visitors, because these findings don't support or cannot be explained within the paradigm of the predominant theory, and as consequence are disregarded and abandoned simply because they cannot be explained from the perspective of our culture and our knowledge. Apparently our scientists are only after reassuring confirmations. Do you remember we spoke before about this book, a few days ago?"

"Yes" she said, "We have also seen a documentary on YouTube, and I remember Cremo saying that the «Archaeologists and anthropologists have covered up as much evidences as they dug up, literally» [A4.1]. Thompson was complaining about the existence of a «Knowledge Filter» [A4.2], and made the example of a «colander» for knowledge, but at the same time he said, «It is not a deliberate conspiracy in the sense of some people getting together in a smoky room and saying, we are going to deceive people» [A4.3]. And then? Are we supposed to believe this Knowledge Filter is random, or casual, and happens by chance, without nobody actually doing it?"

"Crema and Thompson said the cause of this Knowledge Filter is to be found in the confirmation bias, the mechanism of confirmation and agreement of scientists within the scientific community. But this is really funny because this bias originates from the schoolbooks. It is the writers of the schoolbooks who confirm each other and vanish the findings not substantiating the high moral values of their education. It is the cultural and knowledge backgrounds interfering with the process of interpreting and understanding new information, in this case the new findings, attributing inappropriate meanings and values. Like in the case of the Nicaea Councils, if you ask them, they will tell you that it was nothing to do with Roman Censorship but the beginning of our contemporary western civilization. Nevertheless the Knowledge Filters are made by the law, are enforced by the law, and the schoolbooks and the Nicaea Councils are just examples of this process. The Nicaea Councils represent the early Acts of Moral Supremacy of the new Roman Christian Religion, imposing the pre-eminence of Religion above the Morality of the Law of Man.”

“Do you believe in God?” she asked.

“Claiming, or pretending to have some comprehension or certainty of the existence of God, I would perceive myself very arrogant. If God ever existed, He would be far beyond our imagination. I’m feeling agnostic, and believe that God is just another temptation from the unknown around us. The universe is so precise compared to the Bible it is hard to believe both are from the same artist. My Bible is the Cosmos, the outer space of gasses and galaxies. Concerning the Bible of the missing Gospels I am not sure, but concerning God, if He ever existed, if He really made us, why did He give us the freedom of thought, if we didn’t need it?”

“You said God is a temptation. I like temptations. Good luck God made them!” she said smiling. “Temptations are essentials, and also the Satanic Verses are temptations, aren’t they?”

“Yes they are, but even the best temptations of God were powerless without a woman. In the Bible, also the snake and the apple were unconvincing and unable to seduce without a woman, and Eve is portrayed like a tempting redhead, like you.”

“I was,” she said smiling, “but now I am going white, you see?”

“It makes your eyes stand out even more. This is not a compliment; I really like your eyes so much I cannot explain.”

“What is wrong with my eyes?” she asked.

“Your eyes are a beautiful gift; there is nothing wrong with your eyes, but ‘Complete Heterochromia’ is a masterpiece of the Book of Nature. Your eyes challenge the unfeasible, and make it real. I like your eyes for what they represent, an instance of the impossible made real by the book of nature. I have never met a person with the eyes of two different colours, one blue eye, and the other eye green. It is a case of complete heterochromia but it doesn't matter. This is nature, claiming her freedom of speech. How could I believe the Bible more than the beauty of nature? Your eyes make a mockery of the impossible, and make the least of chances factual and real. This is what I see in your eyes, the impossible chance made real by the book of Nature."

"Maybe, but I know you can do better than flattery" she said. "Do you know what? Probably we should talk more about temptations; it would be more interesting also for the students. In the end, also temptations are part of Creation, aren't they? It is probably the most interesting part of life, and students may like it more than the tricky nonsense of the school programs."

"Yes, you are right, but temptations are not missing from the Bible, not like the freedom of choice, and most of the Apostles. But you are right; we cannot forget temptations, and especially your eyes. And you? What is tempting you most?"

"Oh, I live day by day. I don't know my temptations of tomorrow, but I know I have been tempted by your stories. Knowledge is tempting, and curiosity is probably the heart of all the temptations. We should talk more about taboos. What's wrong with physical pleasure, and Hedonism? And what's wrong with sex? How could possibly sex be a sin? What would Humanity be without sex? On the other hand, isn't it clear that creation supposes incest from the start? Furthermore, in accord with the early versions of the Genesis, Adam and Eve had only three male sons; what monstrosity is this? What am I supposed to believe, we descend from the mystery of the homosexual conception? How could humanity exist without women, and without sex from the start? And what about 'Free Love' to separate the State from sexual matters? Why do men have a harem, and women don't? Why cannot we have a group marriage, with a few men and women all married together? And what about female priests? What High Moral Values may a man have more than a woman? And what about the Magdalene laundries [W49]? What about the nuns and the sexual abuses of the priests? What about the freedom of choice for abortion? Why women are paid less than men, for the same job of a man? What is this, Magdalene laundries legacy? Now you tell me, who really is on the cross, a man or a woman?" she asked in a rush, with the understanding she was not to have an answer, not different from the abuses and violence she was listing. "Who is on the cross, a man or a woman?" she asked again, repeating, but I was already buried in my thoughts. For a long time I was considering writing the Catholic Satanic Verses, but during all this time I have never questioned myself about the feminine part of it. The female part of the Catholic Satanic Verses was missing, and maybe this is the reason I was unsure, and never moved any further from the notes I was collecting since long before Aisling arrived.

She was right, despite my attempt to put myself in her shoes, I could have never imagined what she could have wanted, needed, felt or said. The freedom of choice was lurking through her eyes now, the eyes of her freedom, and the essence of her was fading away, inaccessible, something I could have never reached or comprehended. She became a figment incarcerated in the confines of my imagination, but could I be a gaoler? I asked myself, until I saw her freedom coming to me through her freedom, sitting next to me on the bench, so I could see her view, and she reappeared again as the only actor on the stage, the only flower in the Park I loved to listen to.

"Yes the Church and the female gender is another issue of biblical proportions" I said, back in this world, "Probably to be consistent on the cross there should have been a woman from the start" I said smiling, but she didn't reply to my teasing.

"If there is any Knowledge or Cultural Filter, and we know it is, Religion plays a major role in building it. We should list a few more examples of Knowledge Filter, shaping the national system of values and its meritocracy, the values in which society is educated. This is a set up for guinea pigs!"

“Definitely. Starting from the freedom of conscience of having a personal opinion, in philosophy, cosmology, science and arts. I already have a few questions to ask, you know. There is no doubt, in education religion is more influential than the State, and Justice is not to be found in the Laws of the Sate but in the afterlife.”

“Yes, so how do we do this?” she queried.

“Well, concerning the Cultural and Knowledge filter we can quote the Forbidden Archaeology, listing the waste of Archaeological findings, but I doubt we will ever find any quote explaining how the Catholic Heresies become Catholic Legacy. Eventually we can quote a few pages from the Wikipedia, to introduce a few Historical figures like Eratosthenes, Constantine or the Bible of Eusebius of Caesarea.”

“Yes but the most of Wikipedia is made by students copying the schoolbooks on the Internet. Furthermore, it is not really possible to quote Wikipedia because the text is unstable, and the Universities don’t accept it as a reliable source. What help may be from Wikipedia?”

“If someone likes more documentation, Wikipedia offers a bibliography and someone may continue his exploration, but the most of our writing should be put into a few simple self-explanatory questions. We should make easy questions, and then, if the readers cannot find an answer, not from Wikipedia, and not from the reliable sources of the Universities, then they have to think with their own head, and with that we made our point. What could we do more than this? We are not responsible for all of this; we are just snooping around for uncharted thoughts in Education, don’t you remember?” I asked smiling.

“What questions have you in mind?” she asked rolling the pen on the notebook.

“I would like to ask how the Catholic Heresies become Catholic Legacy” I replied promptly. “Because for the students to understand this question they have to think with their own head, and this is important. They have to experience the contradictions of their textbooks; they have to learn to use their own heads, and not just be obedient, and repeat like parrots everything they are told.”

“Yes but this question needs an explanation because the schoolbooks don’t even mention what the Catholic Heresies are, and Wikipedia is no different.”

“We said something about, introducing the Catholic Heresies; it shouldn’t take more than what we already said. The point is not in listing the heresies analytically one by one, but to highlight a few examples, a few contradictions, and reflect on them, to explore the connections, consequences and implications.”

“And then, what is there more to say?” she asked again.

“There is evidence of millennia of abuses, and we can only scratch the surface. We can list a few inconsistencies from our schoolbooks, showing that the cultural revisionism of the Nicaea Council is still ruling the society of today, but the list of the abuses perpetrated by the Catholic Church in history is immense and we cannot pretend to do a complete list. One man’s entire lifetime wouldn’t be enough to catalogue all the devastation, the cultural and intellectual revisionism that came with Christianity; we can only introduce a few characters like Eratosthenes, Aristarchus of Samos, or Hypatia, and then the Nicaea Council flattening the Earth for millennia. But freedom of thought, curiosity and temptations are built in the book of nature, and no Church will ever be able to prevent nature from its course, whatever Bible they may have. Freedom of thought is in the big scheme from the start, and was unavoidable more people after Eratosthenes travelled through again similar observations and intuitions of the repetitive movements of the cosmos, like the Astronomers of the Middle East did, publishing doubts on Ptolemy Theory and improving substantially the accuracy of their experimental observations, not only with the leap year. In 850, al-Farghani wrote a compendium of the science of stars [\[W61\]](#), and by the year 1030 the Ptolemaic System [\[W4\]](#) was openly criticized by Astronomers from Middle East, long before Copernicus and Galileo arrived with their observations. How far from truth would it be, if Copernicus or Galileo knew about the ancient Greek Heliocentric theories, or the Islamic improvements in Astronomy? On the other hand we know the real fear of Copernicus is well represented by his decision to publish his book only after death. And sometime later, when Galileo decided to prove Copernicus Heliocentric Theory was real, Galileo turned up demonstrating Copernicus' fear of the Inquisition was even more real. Astronomical knowledge was available since long before Jesus arrived, but His Church flattened the skies; no wonder the Vatican made crusades to stop the Astronomical revolution during the Islamic Golden Age, pointing out the Catholic Heresies shining in the night sky!

Another case I love from the schoolbooks concerns the Renaissance Culture, becoming intellectual legacy of the persecutors of the Renaissance Culture. The schoolbooks pretend that Italy is the flagship of the Renaissance Culture, with Galileo, Michelangelo and many more historical figures, but in evidence the Renaissance Culture was made up of Catholic Heresies, and cannot be Catholic Legacy. The Renaissance was made of Catholic blasphemies, and in Italy, at the time of the Renaissance, the Inquisition and the Counter-Reformation strove exactly against the heresies of the Renaissance Culture, the heresies of Copernicus and Luther perhaps, but also against the heresies of Galileo and Michelangelo.

The Renaissance was blooming with different versions of the Bible, and even more curiosities for natural sciences; it was the rediscovering, the rebirth of the ancient Greek Pre-Christian Philosophy the Nicaea Council was unable to vanish from history, and even less from human nature. The Renaissance was the resurrection of the freedom of conscience, which is part of the human being and as such cannot be dismissed or erased. This is a solid statement of the book of nature, and not a disputable quote from the Bible.”

“And concerning the characters? Did you think about this?” she asked, recalling the literary perspective of the writing we were discussing sometime before.

“We are only expected to conform and obey, and to forget our individual differences and personal curiosities which are not accepted. We are expected to conform to the schoolbooks and to the selected words of Jesus, but if I cancel our individualities I only see our ghosts, lifeless and unreal. As a consequence our characters should be like ghosts, artificial characters, straw men, deprived of individuality and personality, just like puppets following a script; like Galileo did in his dialogue [W18]. But really there is something I am tempted to say.”

“Something about what?”

“Something about your eyes.”

“You could tell my name, it would be the same.”

“I like your eyes for what they represent, an instance of the impossible made real by the book of nature.”

“Thank you.”

“What about you? Will you say anything about the vanishing of your passport and your degree? Would you talk about that?” she asked changing the subject.

“The story of my personal documents may be perceived as a personal matter and I wouldn’t confuse public and private matters. On the other hand I see it could be an example, a case I know from my personal experience, something I am sure and have no doubt about. Maybe I say something, but just to explain what it means having rights we cannot really claim, not even the most basic rights, and also our name may be taken from us.

After complaining about the vanishing of archaeological findings, I rather wonder how the Professors Cremona and Thompson would comment on the disappearance of University Degrees from the offices of Universities, and the vanishing of Legal Suits from the Courts of Justice. Because all these disappearances are not random but have the same High Moral Values in common.”

“Maybe we should ask the European Union; if the E.U. was as serious as it pretends to be, your personal documents shouldn’t be a problem. Why don’t you send them the transcript of your video, when you were arrested and you taped the policeman informing you about the false accusations of anonymous informants? Tell them you would like to know about your personal documents. Tell them you are paperless like an illegal immigrant, in that civilized place of Europe. Ask them how long it may take to find your passport?"

"They already know all of this; years ago the European Office OLAF sent a copy of my legal claim to the Court of Justice in Milan, and the prosecutor Corrado Carnevali swept that legal claim under the carpet on behalf of his God, the puppeteer. Definitely the meaning of Justice in Italy is 'special', and for the same reason also the Nuremberg trials [W63] had different results for the Fascists, compared to the Nazis, despite both being responsible for the same crimes, and despite the fact that it was not the Nazis who invented 'The Holocaust'. The Jewish ghetto in Rome was made with the remains left over from the building of the Basilica of Saint Peter, and that made the difference also in Nuremberg, almost 2000 years later.

Why should I be surprised if still today the same High Moral Values of the Fascists are tolerated and promoted in Europe, above the Law? Why should I be surprised if the European Union needs this 'Moral Supremacy' in order to exist?

Why should I be surprised if step by step the Catholic Heresies have become slogans for the Catholic Propaganda, and the System of Corruption of the Roman Supremacy is taught and imposed as Values and Virtues of Democracy? As matter of facts, the Catholic Church has persecuted the Catholic Heresies throughout history, but these Values, the pompous "Catholic Heresies" in discussion are nothing more than the Freedom of Choice and the Secular Value of Justice, individual and personal Values the Church has always refused to respect.

In fact the Church is a Theocracy, a totalitarian absolute regime demanding to rule Earth like God would, or at least this is their sincere intention; it was within this framework of Culture and Tradition of Absolute Power that Mussolini religiously persecuted the dissenter demanding the Secular Values of Democracy and Justice, and deserter and recusant as Apostates of the faith. Mussolini did not persecute the Jew as infidels, but persecuted the Democrats, the Liberals and the Socialist as infidels, and the intellectual cleansing he enforced. The inquisition he revamped was demonstrating the millenary extent of the Catholic tradition of Democracy.

After the march on Rome in 1922, after the fraudulent elections in 1924, the 3 January 1925 during the speech for the murder of the member of parliament Giacomo Matteotti [W74] Mussolini said that - the democratic values have to be found in the Catholic tradition - and after he said that, the very same day he dismissed the parliament, dissolved the political parties, suspended the freedom of press and religiously persecuted the oppositions, as apostates of the faith and enemies of the state, anticipating the future words of the Excommunication of the democratic values, and providing further privileges he granted to the Vatican. A few years later in 1929 Mussolini signed the Concordat with the Vatican [W3], reinstating the Vatican City after the Italian Unification, endorsing the Cultural Supremacy of the Roman Catholic Tradition as the only Religion of State, and completing the cultural foundation of the Fascist Regime and the Racial Laws he enacted all the way to promote and privilege the Catholic Tradition.

The parliament was already dismissed for 14 years when on the 11 November 1938 Mussolini promulgated the Racial laws [W52] concerning the senator for life Liliana Segre [W74] but for the democrats the holocaust was started 14 years before, and to this day has not ended.

In fact in 1949, after WWII, after the Nuremberg Trials absolved the Racial Laws of Mussolini as Culture and Tradition, the Vatican repeated the Anathema against the Democratic Values with the Holy Decree against Communism [W71]. But the problem was not concerning the Communist party but with the Freedom of Choice and the Secular Value of Justice; the Democratic Values historically persecuted as Heresies of rebels and conspirators plotting against the Absolute Power of the Church.

Sometime after the dark ages, after Saint Peter was declared Heretic and most of the gospels were lost, after all the copies of the Bible of Eusebius ordered by Constantine were lost, sometime later in the history you can read in the Bible concerning the law of man << But Peter and the Apostles answered, 'We must obey God rather than man' >> [B3].

At the time of Mussolini the Church was opposing the democratic movements meant to limit the despotic tyranny and abuses of the Absolute Power of the Church, and for the occasion the Church was addressing the rebels as communists, in order to maintain their privilege and pretence to be above the common laws. In fact the clergy never consider themselves as commoners, never liked to be subject to the common laws, and to respect this tradition they made it that the common laws would not apply to them.

Similarly at the time of the French revolution the church was addressing the chartist movements as anarchists, people not respecting the authority, but in reality it was the Church that was the real anarchist that never respected any law or authority, not even their own, and prefers to interpret God's will case by case, conforming and confirming the ancient Romans nickname of barbarians and sociopaths for their pretence to be above the law and disregard other people's rights.

Today the moral leadership of the Catholic Church is out for every kind of abuse they can exploit, and along with the sexual abuses scandals, the abuses in education should be of equal concern. In fact the Church likes to recruit students internationally with the lure of education, and than makes them believe they are intelligent students that have to fight for their rights and for democracy.

I am not sure such students are aware that the democratic values are the result of the emancipation from the absolute power of the church, and the bishop will never be able to tell one democratic value that has ever been a Catholic value in history, and the lawsuit stack up to the millions of cases and are swept into the afterlife for Justice.

Also the reformation of the Churches was more about rights and freedoms than religion, and the propaganda pretending the democratic values are Catholic legacy is just a slogan Mussolini invented for the 3 Jan 1925 when he dismissed the parliament.

Recently in Italy the Minister of Justice reported over a 9.000.000 legal case backlog; does this happen by chance or is there a plan to organize this disruption? The Judge Luigi Tosti [A33] was disbarred as a Judge and Lawyer after suggesting the removal of the crucifix from the Courts of Justice, as if the rights of people had to be found in the Bible rather than the Codes of the Law. But the best is the evidence that since the time of the Decree against Communism nobody ever asked how the Democratic Value have become Catholic Legacy. As if the Freedom of Choice and the Secular Value of Justice could have possibly ever been Catholic Values.

The Fascist Regime is still there the same as it was, and the end of WWII in Italy has never arrived. Nuremberg in Italy never brought Justice but the confirmation and consolidation of the Racist Regime as good values of the Italian Culture and Tradition. No matter the Racial Laws, the intellectual cleansing and the persecution of the democrats as Apostates of the faith and enemies of the state since the 3 January 1925. Today the Senator for Life Ms Liliana Segre [W74] feels impelled to tell about the racial laws promulgated from 1938 until the end of the war, but for the democrats the holocaust started 14 years prior, and has not ended yet. In fact after WWII the Pope repeated the racial laws with the excommunication of the communists and those making common cause with the democratic values, the freedom of choice and the secular values of justice. Giacomo Matteotti was murdered for expressing the human sense of Justice against this tyranny of corruption and deception pretending to be above the law for divine reasons of Roman Supremacy.

After WWII Italy never had any re-education program concerning the Holy Racial Laws, and the fascist tormentors have continued their Culture and Tradition of abuses with the blessing of the Pope as before, against the democrats and those demanding the secular value of justice.

Since the end of WWII the Public Administration in Italy blackmails people for personal documents, intentionally makes people paperless, vanishes lawsuits from the Courts of Justice and prints fake Passports and University Degrees for good Catholic people like Kyenge, Regeni and the thousands they represent from the schools of the bishops. They can have recommendations for diplomas and degrees they never had, meanwhile others cannot have confirmation of their legitimate academic careers from State Universities and their lawsuit are swept under the carpets as living offers to the crucifix of Jesus.

For a long time after Nicaea these High Moral Values have been above the law in Europe, until the end of the Dark Ages, and we shouldn't be surprise if the European Union of today looks like a revival of the Dark Ages, when Europe was all united under the Moral Leadership of the Pope. Until the Renaissance arrived, shattering the Catholic hegemony into pieces, with the Catholic Heresies once again fuelling that revolt.

So, it may be worth remembering that Galileo and Michelangelo were just repeating the reasons of the rebels fuelling the Renaissance, and also Mussolini was not the mastermind of the racial laws he enacted in the name of such High Moral Values he embraced with the Concordat, with the mentoring and blessing of the Pope. It should be worth remembering that the Holocaust didn't concern the Jews only, but it was a Cultural matter more then racial, against the democrats, the liberals and socialists persecuted by Mussolini because of their Political Ideal of Justice, incompatible with the Catholic Holy scripture. In fact, the democrats were expecting Justice from the law of man, rather than postponing it to the afterlife, in accord with the tradition and the blessing of the Pope.

Why be surprised if still today, in the name of these High Moral Values, legal claims are swept under the carpets, and our rights for Justice are postponed to the afterlife? Still today I know for sure people's degrees and passports vanish into thin air, in the office, and we cannot ask Justice for the millenary tradition of forgeries and intellectual cleansing because the European Union tolerates and acts as an accomplice to all of this, since the time of the Nuremberg trial, the European Union needs this morality above the laws to exist, and since then is sweeping more and more people under the carpets.

But it is comical to see, in Germany in the last few years two Ministers have been stripped of their University Degrees because they have plagiarized some parts or paragraphs of their Theses. In Italy Ministers and Members of Parliament have been found with totally fake degrees; I mean they have never been to University at all, and despite faking legal documents they have never been prosecuted.

In Italy the Public Administration vanishes people and documents all together, and the Courts of Justice vanish the legal claims even if the European Union issued these claims, concerning my European Passport and my Degree perhaps, vanished into Italian thin air. Definitely the EU is not helping the enforcement of the law, or fighting the Italian Mafia and System of Corruption.

In evidence the Italian territory of Europe is much more tolerant than the German territory concerning the law of man, isn't it? In Italy counterfeiting is an industry since the time of Saint Peter, in Germany counterfeiters get fired, and in England the victims complaining of their rights against the mob are locked up in high security prisons as terrorists.

Tell me, what to expect from Europe? There are reasons if the Nuremberg trial prosecuted the Nazis, but not the fascists; and if in England the victims of such System of Corruption are isolated and made paperless like illegal immigrants, it is not by the law but in accord with the System of Corruption of the Catholic Tradition.

Since the time the Fathers of the Church arrived in Rome pretending the law of Rome was not the true law to obey; is it clear, the origin of this tradition of High Moral Values above the law, where are they from?"

"Those were High Moral Values" she said, once more dismayed.

"These may be High Moral Values to someone, but not to me" I whispered standing up, and then we took our way home, though we could still discern the residual shadows of the daylight beams from behind the horizon.

Galileo was not Italian

(The Renaissance Culture)

I was recalling images and words of the recent conversations with Aisling, snooping around for uncharted thoughts in Education, when she arrived from the shortcut behind the bushes, fluttering a magazine in the air.

“Look, Italy, the flagship of the Renaissance culture. You must be so proud of Italian Culture and Tradition! Look, Galileo! Michelangelo! Have you ever seen the Sistine Chapel for real? It must be magnificent, fabulous!” she said again firmly, finding a place at my side. “This is something to talk about, isn’t it?”

The sun was bright and no clouds could have dared to cross the sky without being spotted. Over the hedge, on the other side of the Park someone was playing football and the whistling and shouts of the players were reverberating and permeating the air all over.

“Concerning the Sistine Chapel a dispute was ignited while Michelangelo was still painting the vault, because the frescoes of Michelangelo were representing all the Deities and Saints naked and some bishops didn’t like the idea. Nowadays there are no naked Deities or Saints in the Sistine Chapel; none of the characters of the frescoes are portrayed the same as it was by Michelangelo.”

“What do you mean?” she queried surprised.

“Michelangelo, in the original version of the frescoes, has represented all the Deities naked, God included, but now none of the Saints portrayed in the vault are naked anymore. The naked version of God by Michelangelo was not accepted; same as the Gospel of Saint Peter, same as our freedom of thought we had from the most authoritative God of Nature. It is obvious something has happened during the time, to amend these things, and rather than admiring our contemporary frescoes resulting from layers of millenary censorship I rather wonder what was in the original project of Michelangelo, the reasons why Michelangelo did it his way, and why later the original frescoes have been changed, in the essence, and censored.”

“This magazine doesn’t say a word about censored frescoes. Are you sure of what you are saying?” she asked, testing my confidence.

“Sure I am sure, indisputable. If you like you may Google the Bishop Carafa and Daniele da Volterra [W19] [W20], or the fig leaf [W21] movement. I am not inventing anything. The bishop Carafa put pressure on Pope Julius II in order to cancel the nudity from the Sistine Chapel, and Daniele da Volterra, alias Braghettone, is the actual author of the final version of the Sistine Chapel people pay the ticket for. If you like, we may try to search on the Internet later; now I like to tell you something about the difference between the Dark Ages and the Renaissance time.

During the dark ages God was at the center of human life. It was God who decided Human destiny, and the people were just like puppets, deprived of the possibility to change the Design of God. But with the arrival of the Renaissance all of this was to change. At the time of Michelangelo there was a Cultural Revolution going on, and the ancient disputes concerning Free Will and Freedom of Choice were re-emerging from the abyss of the Dark Ages. After the Nicaea Councils, after millennia of cultural revisionism and intellectual censorship, the people were to rediscover the ancient value of freedom of choice, and the personal responsibility for the actions people choose to do. God was not the puppeteer anymore, deciding people’s life and destiny but people themselves were deciding, with their free will and their actions. It is in this regard, during the Renaissance, people are at the center of their lives, because of the rediscover of the freedom of choice and the consequent personal responsibilities for one’s own actions.

In this scenario Michelangelo was a man of his time, was a man of the Renaissance, and he depicted a summary of these heresies in his frescoes. It was not just a matter of nudity but Philosophy, Astronomy, Science, human destiny and God’s will. How would you consider yourself baptised if you were unconscious when it happened, and you didn't choose it in conscience, with a Free Act of Will and Choice? The sacrament of Baptism was originally a matter of Will and Choice, and during the Renaissance people wanted that freedom back, the freedom to choose, eventually dissent, and be personally responsible for their individual choices. Martin Luther represented very well his moral dissent in the 95 Theses [\[W22\]](#) he posted on the entrance of the Cathedral in Wittenberg, but he was not the only one to feel embarrassed by the Roman Morality selling tickets to heaven to murderers, torturers and tormentors.

So, after the dark ages the Renaissance was a new age, demanding intellectual emancipation from the Moral Supremacy of the Catholic Tradition ruling Europe since the time of the Nicaea Council. The Renaissance shattered the European Catholic hegemony into pieces, and the Catholic Heresies well represent the reasons fuelling the revolt.

The Renaissance was not a point in time, or a place on earth, but was a matter of meanings, freedom of choice and personal responsibilities for one's own actions. If you didn't choose to be baptised, you were not really baptised, and this is the reason why several Reformers rejected the baptism of infants. On the other hand, with freedom of choice also comes the moral obligation to express personal dissent, which had never been an option since the time of the Nicaea Council.

Luther was not the first person to be excommunicated, and was not to be the last. In the big picture many more historical figures emerge, in all the branches of human knowledge. So, to continue, the Renaissance was a movement for the cultural and intellectual emancipation from the Catholic Tradition; it was a rebellion against the Cultural Regime, against the System and Corruption, the System of Indulgences [\[W23\]](#), simony [\[W24\]](#) and Saints above the law ruling Europe.

The Renaissance was the end of the Dark Ages, but on the other hand also nowadays I can clearly see some people are pretending Michelangelo made the frescoes of the Sistine Chapel, and the same people are selling the tickets to admire the masterpieces. But the original frescoes have been censored; have been changed in order to cancel Michelangelo's original meanings, and today there is no trace of Michelangelo left there. The funny part is that the Vatican knows all of this, but to them it doesn't look like plagiarism, or fraud, and they have no reasons to feel like con-artists.

I also understand some people express their freedom of choice claiming that Italy is the flagship of the Renaissance Culture, but who do you believe may make that claim? Galileo, or Michelangelo? Italy is the most Catholic place on earth, and the Renaissance in Italy never took place, but the inquisition did. At the time of the Renaissance in Italy there was the Inquisition and the Counter-Reformation, working against the Heresies of the Renaissance Culture. There is no way the Catholic legacy may represent the Renaissance Culture, it is impossible; the Catholic Heresies have nothing in common with the Catholic Legacy, only the stake of the inquisition, and there is no possible confusion."

"Eventually you may ask how the Renaissance Culture became intellectual legacy of the persecutors of the Renaissance Culture. It should help to highlight the Freedom of choice on one side, and absolute obedience on the other" she said continuing her last thoughts.

"Yes. But Luther was simply criticising the morality of the system of Indulgences and Corruption of the Catholic Tradition; he was commenting on the practice of the Church selling redemption from sins and crimes. The Church was selling tickets to heaven to everybody who could afford it, and was taking advantage of the fears of the poor people. In this scenario Luther was complaining about the exploitation of the most inner human feelings, about the system of corruption, indulgence and simony, and today we could file the very same complaints for the very same reasons. But did you ever wonder why Michelangelo represented God in the image of man, a naked man with all the details?” I asked.

“No. Not really, no” she said.

“Traditionally, from the Bible, we know that ‘God made mankind in his own image’ [B2; Genesis, 1:27]. So, Michelangelo in the frescoes of the Sistine Chapel in accord with the Bible represented God in the image of man, completely naked with all details, but soon the frescoes were censored, while Michelangelo was still alive. Apparently the problem was with the sexuality of God, but Michelangelo went further than that, expressing God as a Human projection. Michelangelo made apparent the Human origin of God, representing God in the image of man, surrounded by a crowd of Saints of well-known human origins, all looking the same as God. A crowd of man-made Saints, naked, staring from all over the Ceiling of the Sistine Chapel, this is what Michelangelo depicted, to remind the priests of their pretence playing God, and their human actions. Michelangelo represented God in the image of man, as a human projection. This is what he really did; with Michelangelo it wasn’t God creating Man in his image, but Men creating Gods in their image. This is the magnitude of the revolution of the Renaissance Culture; humans are not puppets anymore but create their Gods, and are Free to Act in accord with their Freedom of Choice. The rediscovery of the ancient value of the freedom of choice became the only way leading to heaven, not the blessing or the indulgence fees of the Pope, but people’s real actions, and the nude figures were only symbolic of the human condition; it was not a matter of nudity but philosophical meanings concerning the nature of Man and God.

In his art works Michelangelo represented the Renaissance Culture that he was living in, and truly the Sistine Chapel of Michelangelo was representing the Revolution of the Renaissance Culture clashing with the ancient walls of the Vatican. So, Michelangelo represented God in the image of man, like a projection of man; a man that represents himself as God. It is like saying that God is man made, like all the Deities and Saints around Him, but it also suggests that the man pretending to be God only fools himself. The Renaissance was a Cultural Revolution, and Michelangelo depicted the inner meanings of that revolution all over the ceiling. This is the reason why the Sistine Chapel was censored, and nobody ever saw the original frescoes of Michelangelo.”

“Ok. This is a different scenario. I like this perspective of man inventing God” she said with a smile, like after a nice surprise. “But what about this magazine? What about the Italian leadership of the Renaissance Culture?” she asked.

“The Magazine is beautiful, the paper is exquisite and the photographs are great; I wouldn’t go any further than that. At the time of the Renaissance Italy didn’t even exist, and neither Michelangelo nor Galileo ever claimed to be Italian, because they couldn’t, because they never knew of a town or a country named Italy, but if they were alive today they would make exactly the same complaints, for exactly the same reasons.”

“What do you mean, Italy didn’t exist?”

“Pretending Galileo was Italian would be like pretending Julius Caesar was Italian” I said smiling. “I am sure he never said that, and for the same reasons as Julius Caesar neither did Michelangelo, 15 hundreds years later. At the time of Michelangelo, in the territory where actually Italy is, were a number of independent states, always fighting each other. There never existed a union, a league, or a flag to unify the states of the Italian Peninsula, never before the XIX century. That was ages after Galileo and Michelangelo died”.

“This is funny, yes. I don’t remember anybody saying that Julius Caesar was Italian, but a number of people pretend Galileo was, like also Christopher Columbus and many more” she said.

“To make this clear, the Austrian diplomat Klemens von Metternich, an influential diplomat at the Congress of Vienna in 1814 [A31][W25][W26], concerning the Italian situation said that ‘Italy is only a geographic expression’, like Asia, or Africa. In fact, after the dissolution of the Roman Empire, the territory of the Italian peninsula was divided into a number of independent states, traditionally fighting each other, and there has never existed a league, a flag or an alliance to represent the united peninsula. Apparently the word, the term 'Italy', originated from an ancient Greek nickname [\[W27\]](#), but these are legends, like the Capitoline wolf [\[W59\]](#). The Pre-Christian Romans made the Roman Empire, and never called themselves 'Italians', and before the movements for the Italian Unification in XIX century there never existed a flag or an alliance to represent the united peninsula; this is the evidence we can see from history. Anyway, despite the anachronism of pretending Galileo was Italian, I am feeling confident Galileo today would be disappointed exactly the same as he was, and exactly for the same reasons."

"Here it is. Galileo, from Wikipedia" she said, showing her smart phone and introducing the reading."

Quote from Wikipedia [\[W28\]](#)

«Galileo Galilei (15 February 1564 – 8 January 1642) was an Italian physicist, mathematician, engineer, astronomer, and philosopher who played a major role in the scientific revolution. His achievements include improvements to the telescope and consequent astronomical observations and support for Copernicanism. Galileo has been called the 'father of modern observational astronomy', the 'father of modern physics', the 'father of science', and 'the Father of Modern Science'.» [End Quote]

"I don't agree completely but I've read something similar before, from the schoolbooks. Concerning the Wikipedia claim that Galileo was Italian, for consistency, this claim would make sense only if Julius Caesar also was said to be Italian. Concerning Galileo 'Father of Modern Science', there is more to say, and more interesting characters could be introduced in these terms, like Eratosthenes, Aristarchus of Samos, or Hypatia, living more than a thousand years before Galileo. Don't get me wrong, Galileo understood that not all celestial bodies were stars;

he understood the existence of other planets, and from the phases of Venus understood that earth is orbiting around the sun. He is to be admired, but some other people did it before him and their knowledge has been vandalized by the same censors of Galileo, ages before him.

Anyway, further down the page it should mention that Galileo was on trial for heresy, for a matter of planets and orbits; don't believe it! It was not the stars of the sky who were offended, but the stars living on this planet."

"Yes, here it is" she pointed out.

Quote from Wikipedia [\[W28\]](#)

«In September 1632, Galileo was ordered to come to Rome to stand trial. He finally arrived in February 1633 and was brought before inquisitor Vincenzo Maculani to be charged. Throughout his trial Galileo steadfastly maintained that since 1616 he had faithfully kept his promise not to hold any of the condemned opinions, and initially he denied even defending them.

However, he was eventually persuaded to admit that, contrary to his true intention, a reader of his Dialogue could well have obtained the impression that it was intended to be a defence of Copernicanism.» [End Quote]

"And further down it continues" she said, scrolling the text.

Quote from Wikipedia [\[W28\]](#)

«Galileo was found "vehemently suspect of heresy", namely of having held the opinions that the Sun lies motionless at the centre of the universe, that the Earth is not at its centre and moves, and that one may hold and defend an opinion as probable after it has been declared contrary to Holy Scripture. He was required to 'abjure, curse and detest' those opinions.

He was sentenced to formal imprisonment at the pleasure of the Inquisition. On the following day this was commuted to house arrest, which he remained under for the rest of his life. His offending Dialogue was banned; and in an action not announced at the trial, publication of any of his works was forbidden, including any he might write in the future.» [End Quote]

“Scary. So, Galileo was on the list of the prohibited books” she said, commenting on the reading with a smile.

“Yes he was, and if he were still alive he would probably ask how the Catholic Heresies became Catholic Legacy, starting from the freedom of conscience of having a personal opinion, in philosophy, cosmology, science and the arts.

There is no way Galileo knew about Italy, and the only Roman Culture he knew was the Roman Catholic he had experienced with the Inquisition. The Inquisition represents the Catholic Renaissance much better than Galileo or Michelangelo ever did. Still today in Italy there is no salvation except the Catholic option, and this is the reason why today Galileo would be disappointed exactly the same as he was then.

Maybe it's my fault, and I shouldn't be surprised if some accredited journalists re-publish their schoolbooks as magazines, pretending that Italy is the flagship of the Renaissance Culture. After the education people paid for, what are they supposed to do? Criticize themselves for the prejudice and preconceptions they have learned from their expensive education? Probably I shouldn't be surprised if, after all of this indoctrination, this is the selected intellectual class we've got, ready to convert and renovate the Catholic Heresies as Catholic Legacy, exactly the same as Mussolini did. We have a ridiculous intellectual class, haven't you noticed that?” I asked.

“So, Galileo was not Italian” she said smiling, writing in her notebook.

“Well, the Catholic Heresies have never been Catholic Legacy, and if someone today has the courage to pretend on the side of the Renaissance of Michelangelo was also a Catholic Renaissance, we should underline that the Inquisition was representing the Catholic Renaissance very well” I repeated smirking with confidence. “Try again. In the presentation Wikipedia said Galileo was titled in several ways, like father of modern science, astronomer and more”.

“Yes, I remember that” she said with a nod.

“Well. Galileo was not the first to imagine the spheroid shape of earth. Long before Copernicus arrived, more than 200 years before the birth of Jesus, a man in the ancient pre-Christian Greece did measure the circumference of earth, with surprising precision. I mean he measured the circumference of earth with empirical calculations. He was named Eratosthenes [W29], and lived 18 hundred years before Galileo arrived, long before the Nicaea Council flattened the Earth. In the same period of time also lived Aristarchus of Samos [W35], who is actually known as the first person who placed the sun at the center of the universe, with the earth orbiting around it. Then 600 years later the Nicaea Councils arrived, with the Inquisition and the dark ages, and all of this knowledge was lost, destroyed, devastated and persecuted. This is what happened to the science and knowledge not conforming to the Holy Scriptures, and this is the archaeological field we are supposed to dig; the trace of millenary ashes leading to how the Catholic Heresies became Catholic Legacy. Is it possible nobody ever asked? What is responsible for this confusion, the arrogance of someone or the weakness of others?

I wonder about the arrogance, claiming Galileo as the father of modern science, when at most he was only one of several victims of Modern Censorship. Furthermore Galileo abjured, he didn't pay the highest price like many others. He didn't have the courage of his own words, he didn't stand for his freedom of conscience, and because of renouncing his freedom he was rewarded with his life. On the other hand, Giordano Bruno [W31] was burnt at the stake because of his consistency in sincerely expressing his feelings and his personal opinion. But again, we can't forget that Copernicus didn't have the courage to publish his book before his own death, because of fear of the Inquisition, despite the fact that he was a priest.

Definitively, the freedom of conscience of having a personal opinion is the most controversial heresy of all time, the most persecuted, but the same heresy was also the most precious Value for several other people. In this scenario of intellectual inquisition and repression, Galileo was playing chicken, like a coward, abjuring. Maybe this is why, now, he is portrayed like a hero of modern science, because he gave up, became renegade and betrayed himself. But probably Galileo is just one out of many, scared to death, like they did to me. You should know something by now; I told you what they did to me, and I have shown you evidence of indisputable facts above any reasonable doubt. I will tell you more sometime, if you like; but concerning Galileo, isn't it clear the Censorship he had to face is the same Censorship we have today, the same quality and brand since the time of the Nicaea Council?"

"Definitively Galileo was not the first person to be threatened with the stake of the Inquisition, and was not the last either" she argued, before reading a few words from the Wikipedia page of Eratosthenes.

Quote from Wikipedia [W29]

«Eratosthenes of Cyrene was a Greek mathematician, geographer, poet, astronomer, and music theorist. He was a man of learning, becoming the chief librarian at the Library of Alexandria. He invented the discipline of geography, including the terminology used today. He is best known for being the first person to calculate the circumference of the Earth».

«His calculation was remarkably accurate. He was also the first to calculate the tilt of the Earth's axis (again with remarkable accuracy). Additionally, he may have accurately calculated the distance from the Earth to the Sun and invented the leap day. He created the first map of the world incorporating parallels and meridians, based on the available geographical knowledge of the era.»

...

“Eratosthenes... His work is mostly lost. Devastated during the destruction of the library of Alexandria” she said, repeating the Wikipedia. “This is the destruction of the Idols, at the time of the Nicaea Council, isn’t it? The early Catholic Inquisition we said some time ago?”

“Yes it is. The library of Alexandria was devastated and set on fire a few times, but thanks to some brave librarians from the Middle East some copies of the original pre-Christian Greek books have been saved, and a few centuries later the discovery of these books was to re-birth the Philosophies at the origin of the Catholic Heresies. Also consider the improvements in Astronomy developed in the Middle East during the Western Dark Ages, and the critique to the Ptolemaic System coming from there [W61] [W4]. So, after ages of intellectual repression and Holy Wars, the heresies persecuted by the Inquisition in Philosophy and Astronomy were to bloom again, propelling the Renaissance culture with new values and new meanings of life, rooted in the ancient pre-Christian freedom of conscience, the most inner feeling of self. After ages of darkness, the Catholic Heresies were shining once again in the sky; definitively, the Renaissance Culture is a pile of Catholic Heresies from the deepest roots.”

“And what about the Renaissance in Italy? What about the revolution of Michelangelo and Galileo?” she asked. “Look at this picture in the magazine, the Sistine Chapel!”

“Well. We said something about Michelangelo, and you did right coming with the magazine. It is a good example, like the school textbooks. I only wonder why our best schoolbooks never mention the bishop Carafa and Monsignor Sernini [W19] who organised the protest against the immorality of Michelangelo, depicting naked man-made Saints all over the ceilings. But Michelangelo was simply expressing the values of the Renaissance Culture, in which humans are free actors of their lives, and there is no God’s destiny to decide for them but only their freedom of choice and their actions.

The Renaissance, when Michelangelo was alive, was rediscovering the ancient values of the freedom of choice and freedom of will, the values of one’s own actions, and his frescoes have been censored because God in the image of man was unacceptable, because the viewers would have think being Gods, free to choose and decide. So Michelangelo represented God completely naked in all details, as a projection of man, in order to emphasize the human origin of God. Beside that, he also portrayed the mysteries no man will ever know, like the mystery of death, and the human desires to control also the afterlife. He symbolized the human condition, it’s limits, and that crowd of Deities only represent the human desire of omnipotence: humans pretending to be above everything, above the laws of God made nature, and above God Himself.

It was the Bishop Carafa who led the opposition to the Sistine Chapel, when Michelangelo was still painting the ceiling; then the Council of Trent [W32][W20] condemned the representation of nudities in Religious Art Works, and Braghettone took over and covered up the frescoes of Michelangelo, while Michelangelo was mysteriously sick in the bed where he died soon after. Like if he was poisoned”

“Are you suggesting he was murdered?”

“I don’t know if Michelangelo was murdered or not, but I wouldn’t be surprised if he were; he wouldn’t be the first.

But the point I am trying to make is that if I were to exhibit a fake Michelangelo pretending it was original, I would be prosecuted for fraud, but they are not prosecuted. What am I supposed to believe, nobody knows? It is clear the Sistine Chapel is a scam, but it is justified, by High Moral Values above the law; same as the magazine and the schoolbooks.

Back to the point, concerning the magazine we only have two options. Option one, this magazine is simply Catholic propaganda and plagiarism, like the tickets to pay to see the masterpiece Michelangelo did in the Sistine Chapel. In this case it could still make sense, otherwise, option two, it doesn't make sense at all. But these pictures are beautiful I agree. I only hope you didn't spend too much on it."

"Don't worry. I had a coffee with a friend, a hairdresser. She has plenty of magazines and I borrowed this one. By the way, there is a travel agent at the end of the article, and maybe this is the sponsor."

"Concerning the Italian Renaissance, I really wonder how the Renaissance Culture become Catholic Legacy. Is it possible nobody ever asked? How did the Renaissance Culture become intellectual legacy of the persecutors of the Renaissance Culture? Because I only see the reign of terror established by the Catholic Inquisition. Just look at what happened to Galileo and Michelangelo, or Giordano Bruno. The real revolution feeding the Renaissance is not to be found in Italy but in the discovery of the ancient Greek books of philosophy, the philosophical foundation of the Catholic Heresies. Copernicus, and Luther are the heroes of the Renaissance, with their freedom of choice and scientific curiosities, but they came ages after Eratosthenes, Aristarchus, and Hypatia of Alexandria."

"Hypatia. Who was she?" she asked, typing on the invisible keyboard of the smartphone.

"Both Eratosthenes and Hypatia [\[W33\]](#) lived in Alexandria, but Eratosthenes was preceding 500 years; Hypatia was contemporaneous with the first Nicaea Council. She was professor of mathematics, philosophy and astronomy; she understood the elliptic orbit of earth, which is not a perfect circle as described in the Ptolemaic System, and was killed inside the library of Alexandria, during one of the devastations of the library.”

“I believe I have seen a movie with a similar story, is it possible?”

“It is very possible, because there is a beautiful movie about her, entitled ‘Agora’ [\[A21\]](#), the director was Alejandro Amenábar”.

“So, what about Italy, and Galileo?” she asked puzzled.

“Galileo was under house arrest for life, in accordance with the Italian Renaissance of the Catholic Inquisition; and concerning Italy, there is no salvation from the Catholic option” I said smiling.

“Are you trying to scare me again?” she asked.

“I am serious. The Nicaea Council was the first time the Catholic Moral Supremacy was enforced by the law. After Nicaea, it was just the destruction of everything; art, science, philosophy, astronomy, culture and traditions, starting from the judicial system, it was a total destruction. They have flattened the planet, for thousands of years, and in this scenario it is obvious Galileo is Italian, father of Modern Science; same as Columbus discovered the Americas, Michelangelo made the Sistine Chapel, and the Catholic Heresies are Catholic Legacy.

I only wonder who that may be, the mastermind of this well organized confusion? Who is the mastermind behind this knowledge filter and confirmation bias the professors Cremona and Thompson discuss in the Forbidden Archaeology [\[W17\]](#)?”

“I see your point, but I believe Galileo did the right thing” she said.

“Sure he did” I replied promptly, sharing the point “But concerning the freedom of conscience as a legitimate human right, stated by the law, is still has a long way to go.

Galileo was perceptive enough to have a personal opinion but he had no right to express it, and Freedom of opinion will become political matter and a personal right only after Lafayette and the French Revolution outlined and proclaimed for the first time Human Civil Rights [W34].”

“Sure, there was no freedom of conscience at the time of Galileo, just obedience and the death penalty. Probably some people consider Galileo as Italian, because he followed the Catholic Tradition” she said.

“Maybe, but it was not his choice. Maybe it is because of the education they had, but they don’t really know what it means to be responsible for one’s own action. They vanish people, and then pretend it was an Act of God, despite of their signature on it.

But today I don’t like to talk about them. I will tell you more some other time, about the honourable Ambassadors and Consuls of Italy, faking documents in the legal offices of the Consulates. Like Paolo Galli and Pasquale Aragona, the Ambassadors when my passport and my degree went missing. At that time also the legal suits went missing, in the Courts of Justice, sacrificed to the High Moral Values of the Italian institutions. They fake documents in public offices. They are counterfeiters, mobsters and scumbags; just look at their moral leader, pretending to sell Braghettone with the signature of Michelangelo. Street scammers, I wish they could be responsible for their actions, and this is what also the Police said, they should be prosecuted, but how? Bribery and Corruption in Italy are values, custom and tradition; consequences are not prosecuted, and people are blackmailed for documents they have rights for. This is why also the European Union sent a copy of my Legal Suit concerning the vanishing of my degree and Passport, and the Prosecutor Corrado Carnevali in Milan swept the claim under the carpet, because in his understanding it was an Act of God. So I could be without a passport for a bit longer.”

“Really, when you try to be rude, you are just funny. Seriously, don’t hold back because I like it” she said smiling, almost inviting me to continue.

“I noticed you enjoyed my acting. Next time I will remember to play a few minutes for you, to cheer you up. Promise.” I said, returning the smirk.

“Now I tell you what happened this morning, this is also funny. Do you remember yesterday we discussed the characters, how to represent and to describe them, and what style to use for the dialogues? This morning I was searching Google for suggestions when I found a book, with the title so close to the one we are doing. Believe me, I was really shocked. I was having my breakfast when I found the ‘Dialogue Concerning Heresies’ by Thomas More. It ruined my coffee. Because I couldn’t recall any Thomas More, and the description was promoting the book like «The best English style ever», «The best dialogues ever». I read more, with growing fear, but I couldn’t recall any Thomas More. Then I found out it was a mirage, or better, a man-made mirage, a marketing illusion, a booby trap. Because Thomas More is not a contemporary novelist, but the same Jesuit I studied at the University under the name of Saint Thomas. I wish Mr Thomas More, alias Saint Thomas, could put his nose in this and comment concerning Hypatia, Eratosthenes and so on. But he could truly say, in conscience, he never knew. Anyway, Saint Thomas was portrayed as an English Renaissance writer, but the name of the author on the book should have been Saint Thomas, and not Thomas More. I had to re-heat my breakfast because of that confusion between Catholic Heresies and Catholic Legacy. The only Renaissance Saint Thomas may represent, is the Renaissance of the Inquisition. As I said before, may be he was alive at the time of the Renaissance, but he was living in the dark ages of the Nicaea Council. Thomas More, alias Saint Thomas, was a very obedient man, very obedient to the will of the Roman Tradition. He could never be a man of the Renaissance, like my favourite Henry the VIII.”

“Oh no!” she said, stifling a scream. “Henry VIII was a murderer, he was awful!”

“Yes, I know this version of the story. But I prefer to believe he loved his wife, more than he loved his Pope. The Pope was clear, Henry could have killed his wife but he loved her, and he made a war against God for her. It was not because Henry killed his wife he got all the trouble, but because he didn't, and showed his dissent to the Pope, and this is what the storytellers should say. He changed the Country forever, for her; but it is also possible Henry VIII asked himself who was really ruling the Country, if he, the King, was not allowed to make laws in his Kingdom. I completely agree with the Act of Supremacy of Henry the VIII, stating that Civil Laws are above the laws of the Church [\[W35\]](#) [\[W36\]](#).

Forget the Renaissance of Saint Thomas 'The Roman'. There is no Renaissance in Saint Thomas, but eventually the revival of the millenary tradition of the Inquisition. Nevertheless it is important to remind ourselves of the origin of our System of Values, and the Moral Supremacy of the Church above the laws. It helps to remember that concerning the Bible the point in discussion is not the Bible itself, but the meaning of Morality and Justice that come with it, including the System of Corruption and Indulgence.

We have no Justice by the law, and the values of Justice are not to be found in the laws; there is a market of Indulgence and Simony wide open in the churchyard, exactly the same as it was at the time of Martin Luther. It is exactly the same system of corruption, the same racket of mobsters, the same brotherhood ruling society from behind the scene with favours and blackmails. Nothing has changed since the time of Martin Luther, ages ago."

"Corruption, let me check my notes" she said turning a few pages. "Corruption. There are fees to pay to the Pope. Indulgence [\[W23\]](#) is buying forgiveness and a way to heaven, while simony [\[W24\]](#) is buying a job, titles and privileges here on earth. Is that correct?" she asked.

"Yes, it is a system selling all possible papers people may need, but historically kings and nobility could have been dethrone, deposed and excommunicated if not conforming to the High Moral Values of such System of Values, made of corruption, indulgence and blackmails.

Now, after you spent thousands and thousands of pounds for your education, imagine you would like to know what morality may pretend to transform the Catholic Heresies into Catholic Legacy, or Thomas More into an English Renaissance Humanist?

Can you see the bias from these High Moral Values above the law is influencing the life of people, concerning the value of the Law and Justice, but also personal freedoms, knowledge, and all aspects of life? I wonder if you could see this education is indoctrination and brainwashing, flattening the Earth and the people on it. Can you see it is intentional, and we are manipulated like puppets in the name of these High Moral Value above the law?"

"Well," she paused for a smile, "I am here, trying to help. I agree, the education we had was not the education we needed, or rather, the education we had is not for this world" she said, adding something to the notes. "Our education is not of this world" she said again with a smile "It is not there. It is foolish!"

"Yes, it is inconsistent. A few days ago on the Internet I found a funny page concerning the Renaissance. You know Renaissance means re-birth, the re-discovery of the ancient Greek Pre-Christian Philosophy and Culture. On Wikipedia there is someone claiming his freedom of conscience distinguishes the northern and southern Renaissance, like it could be a matter of geography."

"You know, Wikipedia is for children; it is very popular, but is made out of schoolbooks. It is not really possible to quote Wikipedia, because the text is unstable, and the Universities don't accept it as a reliable source. It is obvious the Roman Catholic persecuted the Renaissance Culture; and it is obvious the Catholic Heresies, as heresies, have nothing in common with the Catholic Church. For us, it is important to underline that the Catholic Heresies will never be eradicated, because they are part of human nature. Freedom of thought and freedom of choice are part of human nature, the essential part of self, the inner nature of the human being. This is why we are all different from each other, and we have different opinions. We have to emphasise this" she said decisively.

"Sure, this is from the book of nature. This is the human condition no one is above. But concerning the quotes for our writing, if the Universities accept only themselves as sources, and the Catholic Heresies have never been part of the School programmes, where are we to find our sources?

We will never find any quote from the reliable texts of the Universities. What can we do to organize bibliographic references on how the Catholic Heresies have become Catholic Legacy?" I asked, expressing my concern.

"The contradictions are so many and so evident, in philosophy, science, art. Everything is screaming out asking how the Catholic Heresies became Catholic Legacy. From the Courts of Justice, to the telescope to admire the sky. Wherever you turn, there you find the Catholic Heresies shining in the sky" she said reassuringly. "It is all self-explained, clear evidence with no explanation needed. But if you still need evidence, try exploring the many different versions of the Bible and ask yourself about Eratosthenes or Galileo. He would be disappointed exactly the same as he was, the same as you, and exactly for the same reasons" she said, repeating my words and waving the leash in the air, just before she walked away.

Jason

From the long shadows of the trees crossing the meadow I knew she was not to be seen in the park that day. Nevertheless, nothing was important anymore, not the time, not the place, not if she was to cross the gate. Another day was coming to its conclusion, and another day of my life was gone. I closed the eyes, pretending to be dead on the bench, until I felt someone was nearby.

“Hi. Have you got a light?”

“Yes, I think so” I answered, opening my eyes and checking in my pockets.

“Recently I have seen you often in the Park, with Aisling. My name is Jason”.

“Hi Jason, how do you do?”

“Fine thanks, but I forgot my lighter at home.”

“This is not a big problem, here is one” I said, remembering him walking in the Park.

“Thanks” he acknowledged, before lighting the cigarette;

“Do you mind if I take a seat?” he asked.

“Please do” I answered, moving the book I left open on the bench.

“What about your reading? Am I disturbing you?”

“Don’t worry, I was chewing over it; it’s a history book I borrowed from the library” I replied, turning the cover.

“England against the Papacy” he said reading the title, “By C.T. McIntire” [A2]. I never heard of it; it sounds like an Anti-Catholic book” he remarked.

“Yes, from the title I had the same impression, but it isn’t. It’s about the ending of the Absolute Power, and the English Diplomacy at the time of the making of the Kingdom of Italy, in 1860.”

“Politics; I hope you are paid to read that” he said with a scornful expression.

“It’s not that bad; it’s like a thriller with the Great Grandpa of the Godfather.” I said encouraging and adapting the story to more recent characters. “Today in the European Parliament we can find the Catholic Democrats Alliance, the Catholic Liberals Alliance, and also the Catholic Socialists Alliance, like if the Secular Values could possibly have ever been Catholic Legacy. In 1860 a scenario like this would have never been possible, and this book helps to emerge this shift; how did the Secular Values become Catholic Legacy?"

"I can see this; but how did it happen?" he asked surprised for the unexpected turn.

"It's really not a popular subject but after World War II the Iron Curtain and the War on Communism have erased the Secular Values also from the Ideals of our Political Parties, and also from our school books, plunging Europe back in the dark ages. Like if Martin Luther, Henry VIII and Voltaire never existed. Bit by bit, the Secular Values have been erased from the schoolbooks, this is how it happened; one step at a time, and now people don't even know what the Secular Values are."

"This is twisted; so how was it before" he asked again.

"At that time, in 1860, the Democratic Movements were growing all over in Europe, establishing Constitutional Monarchies, demolishing the Absolute Power, and the traditional authority of the Pope was not enough to crown a King anymore, but the 'Will of People' was also necessary. On the other hand the Pope was still excommunicating the masses, like in the dark ages, and pretending to be above the Law, causing recurrent turmoil. During this process of emancipation from the Papacy, the Pope was also deposed and overthrown a few times from ruling the 'State of Caesar', but every time the European Catholic Monarchies challenged each other dispatching the best military contingents to restore the Papacy back, and legitimate their throne."

"I see; I wonder if a priest would read or recommend a book like this" he commented smiling.

"Maybe, but this is a history book. It reports facts, and this controversy concerning Caesar and God is also in the Bible. In the Gospels of Mark, Luke and Matthew it says to 'Render unto Caesar what is Caesar's', but in the Acts of the Apostles the Bible instead recommends 'We must obey God rather than Man' [B4] [B5][B6][W65].

Mainly the issue concerns Justice, to be administered in this side of the grave; it is about now and then, these cannot be confused with each other. Nevertheless our rights for Justice in accord to Caesar have been shifted more and more and postponed into the afterlife, and after the pretence of being above the law there is no evidence the followers of God have ever respected any law, not even the laws they made. Maybe the Bible is contradictory about this, but if you look at what they do you will see the unmasked reality of a bunch of mobsters and gangsters pretending to be above the law."

"Exactly what I meant; the kind of book a priest would never recommend" he said repeating and smiling again.

"Maybe, but this is exactly the point; would that be possible for a priest to respect a Secular System of Values in which there is no absolute power and nobody is above the law?" I asked, trying to find common ground.

"I see, it's not really Religion but Politics, Jurisprudence, Philosophy; it is complicated, isn't it?" he asked as if he wanted to acknowledge he was still listening.

"Yes, it is articulated, but it is exactly about Religion and the way Religion affects our world, including Politics, Justice, and the rights we have for our lives. There is no Philosophy that could dilute the Secular Values into Catholic Legacy, and if the followers of God cannot respect any Secular Value, how could they teach it in the Secular Schools?" I asked unveiling my concern. "What about the schoolbooks?"

"I see, you are about the schoolbooks" he said, leaking some dissatisfaction.

"Religion is influencing the secular schoolbooks more than the Civil Values do and really it's not a matter of schoolbooks. It's matter of life on this side of the grave, and not in the afterlife."

He looked at me like thoughtfully.

"I don't understand from your accent, where are you from?" he asked.

“Unfortunately” I said, commenting with my usual answer to that question.

“What do you mean by unfortunately?”

“Originally I am from Italy” I tried to explain.

“Oh; now I can understand your readings” he said. “And what about AC Milan?” he asked again.

“I was living in Milan”.

“So, how are things over there? I believe you didn’t come over just to read this book of McIntire for me, did you?”

“Who knows? During that time the reasons have changed from the original plan”.

“I hope it has changed for the better. There are a few Italians living around here, do you know any of them?” he asked.

“No, you know more than I do” I said. “I don’t know many people, especially Italians; did you ever wonder why there are so many Italian emigrants around?”

“Italy is a country of travellers and sailors, like Christopher Columbus, isn’t it?” he suggested, smiling.

“I heard these words before, from some Italians. Ask them again, if they are travellers or emigrants” I said with some dissent. “The number of people leaving the country speaks for itself.”

“I am curious about Italy; the Football, the Pope. Who really is the Godfather? Does he really exist? Tell me a story about it.”

“I could tell you all kinds of stories, but I prefer the mysteries which reveal themselves through asking the right questions.”

“Yes, like Aisling?” he said with a smile.

“No. Aisling is alright, and she is not something I am curious about” I replied to his humorous remark.

“So what is it? I am still curious. Recently I have seen you quite often here in the Park, with Aisling, talking and writing. Don’t tell me it is nothing to do with her.” He said, with an expression like he knew something, and was expecting from me some explanation.

“You are right, she is helping me in English; I am writing a book and maybe we write it together.”

“Oh, nice, and what is it about?”

“To outline in few words, it is about education and real life. It is a catalogue of evidence and thoughts about schoolbooks, culture and knowledge, but also deception and intentional misinformation.”

“Ok, I choose real life rather than education.”

“And you would be right. It would be more consistent with the world we are living in, but without education it would be more difficult to understand the world around us repeating itself. Anyway, the main reason I am here is because I had a PhD offer a few years ago, at Leeds University.”

“Oh, nice. A PhD in what?”

“In visual perception” I said.

“Oh, nice. Anything to do with the Arts?”

“Not really, I am not an artist at all; and by the way I never had the chance to register for the PhD because the professors in the photograph of my degree ceremony did not confirm the degree they have issued, with their signature on it, and made me into an impostor, a counterfeiter.”

“Sorry, I didn’t get that. What happened?”

“The professors from Verona University where I have completed my degree did not confirm the degree they issued with their signature on it, and made me gave the impression that I was an impostor, a counterfeiter.”

“I don’t believe this. How is it possible they didn’t confirm your degree?”

“I know it sounds odd, but you should ask the Italian Administration, not me. There is no answer to justify why the Administration of Verona University didn’t confirm its own documents, with their signature on it, and questioning why it happened is misleading, like there could be a reason to justify the vanishing of degrees from the archives. It was their job, their responsibility; but they are far above all of this. They simply didn’t confirm the documents they have issued, with their signature, stamps and photographs, and made me gave the impression that I was an impostor;

simple as that.”

“This is really odd. Did they get fired for this?”

“Forget it. In Italy Ministers and consultants of the Government have been found declaring they have a degree they actually never had [A19], and also professors at the University have been found faking their degree and nothing ever happened, despite the fact that a Degree has a Legal Value and faking it is like faking money.

Concerning the vanishing of my degree, a few years ago I sent a Legal Claim to the OLAF Office of the European Union, concerning my rights for travelling in Europe and to fulfil my PhD opportunities, and they sent that Claim to the Court of justice in Milan but the Prosecutor swept the Claim under the carpet. In Italy, you may go to the University for years, pass your exams with the best marks, and then it may happen that the professors in the photograph of your Degree Ceremony will not confirm the degree they have issued, and rather blackmail you for documents you have rights to. This is the Italian tradition!” I said, shaking the book of McIntire in my hands.

“That was extortion, wasn't it?” he asked.

“That was well organized negligence, hiding traditional bribery and methodical blackmails. That was the tradition of favours and blackmail, the very same system of corruption also Martin Luther was complaining about ages ago.

Fortunately, the Italian Public Administration can always rely on the established beliefs that Italians are dodgy and counterfeiters; who else could be the dodgy one between the Public Office and me?

At that time I also called the office of the University in Verona, on the telephone, and I know they were aware of the situation; they also sent me an email informing me that they were aware of the request of Leeds University, but they never confirmed my degree. What they have done was intentional; it was a blackmail to get some money out of me, as if I had to pay a ransom for my personal documents. It is simply like that; and blackmail or not, this is what happened.

Furthermore they are people, but the papers they sign become words of the Institution, and offices don't blackmail people for documents people have rights to. They hide behind the respectability of these offices, and if I never had confirmation of my degree it could only be me being untruthful, and not them blackmailing honest people."

"This is quite a story; but, if the students are blackmailed and have to pay black money for their documents, why didn't you do the same?" he asked.

"Well, does it make sense to you, if I had rights for these documents?"

"Yes, of course it does, but apparently having the right is not enough" he replied.

"I was at the University, for real, and have no intention of being blackmailed by a bunch of mobsters. These people should have been prosecuted, for transforming the Public Offices into a warehouse for scammers and con artists. I have no intention of acting as an accomplice to a gang of mobsters and counterfeiters, but I want eventually to press charges, and to expose all of them. This is the worst possible mafia of all, the mafia of Public Administration, and I have no intention of being a partner in their crimes. They are the true enemy of the State, transforming the Institutions into a cover-up for counterfeiters hiding behind the respectability of Public Office."

"This is really weird. I Hope the situation will resolve itself" he said, but I knew the reality was to be quite different.

"Well, now it is too late. When my degree was vanished I was also cancelled from the population list. I have no passport, no personal ID, like I have never existed, or I were dead."

"This is unimaginable; but how is this possible?" he asked, "Don't you have someone in Italy to go to the authorities to resolve this problems?"

"I don't really like people to get involved with this; I believe I have to do it on my own. My mother sometime ago was concerned, and wanted to try but she only wasted her time. On the other hand, if the authorities, the Institution, don't confirm the document they have issued shortly before, with their signature on it, and state that you don't have a degree, what do you believe you can do? They are the reliable sources, and if the Professors in the Photograph of my Degree Ceremony did not confirm the degree they have issued, with their signature on it, all I could do was to press charges and expose them and make public my Legal Claim, because the Court would sweep it under the carpet."

"And how long has this situation been going on?"

"I had my PhD offer more than 10 years ago."

"And since then you cannot travel, and basically you are trapped here."

"Yes, exactly like that. I have been complaining for 10 years" I said.

"Unbelievable; and you can prove all of this."

"Well, I applied for my documents, and you see the results. I would really like someone to take me to Court for pretending to be Luca Benatti, with degree from Verona University. I would like to see how they could change these facts" I said, but to me was already clear also the Catholic Heresies were transformed into Catholic Legacy, and there was nothing we could have really relied on, not even our name, or the Principle of Identity.

"Anyway, the story was not finished like that. First the Italian Offices made me into an impostor, paperless like an illegal immigrant, and then, when it became clear I was just the victim of the Italian offices, some anonymous informants had the courage to suggest I could have had good reasons to organize revenge, or to become a terrorist, and I was isolated in order to protect them from their fears, for what they have done. So, I was forced into silence, in the confine of their lies, to make real their pretence I was not Luca, was not Degree at Verona University, and never had any reason or rights to claim. They can make your documents vanish, and then pretend the problem is you, not conforming to their will, the will of the Institutions; they can design you like a character from a novel, and you will never be able to complain. It is so obvious the authorities don't lie, and if they say you don't have a degree, that is the truth, and you will be forced to conform to the fiction they made real, despite whatever evidence you may provide.

This is my true and sincere experience; the photographic picture I have got from the democracy we are living in. There are people doing private business in Public Offices, fabricating documents, and the Courts of Justice refuse cases exposing the administrative horrors, misadministration and corruption of such Officers. It is like they had Absolute Power, and the Institutions would rather sweep under the carpet the cases they cannot stand, waiting for things to cool down and cancel as much as possible of what they have done. They are concerned for preserving the honour and the High Moral Values of the institutions, in the name of the best interest of society, and they are not concerned at all about the law, about Justice, about the victims, or the Public Order and Safety they definitively put at risk.

There are no laws or rights we can really rely on. I can assure you, also our name may be taken from us.”

“How is it possible all of this, turning people into paperless impostors? It cannot be legal make people vanish like that” he said with an expression of surprise, like he couldn't believe it.

These are just papers. There are cases like Cecile Kyenge and Giulio Regeni perhaps, they also admitted with their voices the scam of dodgy documents they had, and after all, still pretend to be honest. You don't really need to master a degree to have one; they're just papers. The recent titles in the news concerned the cases of Kyenge and Regeni but these are just two cases, the most recent. Every day there are new cases, and many more could have been found as Kyenge and Regeni were not alone in their classrooms.”

“I don't know; I never heard of them” he said, as he couldn't understand my point.

“The case of Cecile Kyenge [A15][A16][W48] was in the news all over Europe” I replied promptly, “And Giulio Regeni was a PhD Student at Cambridge University.” [A30] [W64]

“Oh, I didn’t know. What happened?” he asked, inviting me to explain.

“Cecile Kyenge admitted with her own voice during a television interview that without the help of the Bishop and his network of friends in the Public Offices, she would have never had the documents she needed to fulfill her plan.”

“What was it?”

“She is originally from Congo and needed visa, passport and funding for her University Degree. During the interview she also admitted that she knew it was illegal what she was doing but the Bishop is a master concerning morality, and if he couldn’t see anything wrong, why should she? Definitely the bishop was not feeling deceitful or fraudulent but compassionate and helpful. Later Ms Kyenge also became a Member of Parliament and then Minister for Integration, which was part of the Ministry for Equal Opportunities. In fact in Italy also forgers and counterfeiters have the rights for equal opportunities, and obviously her confession was only further evidence that she is honest.”

“This is crazy” he said smiling. “Is this true?” he asked as a remark looking for reassurance I was not kidding.

“Yes it’s real” I said encouraging him to believe the information. “The interview is still available from YouTube and also from the website of the Italian National Television channel RAI3 [A15], in addition through Google [A16] you may find the newspapers, also in English. Not long ago this story was in the news all over Europe, because she actually is Member of the European Parliament and the people complaining the morality of the Bishop have been accused of being racist because of Kyenge’s origin and her somatic traits. In reality she is very well integrated, especially with the Italian Catholic Mafia manipulating documents in the Public Offices, and this is nothing to do with the colour of the skin or racism, just Mafia.

On the other hand, in similar circumstances Italians do things differently, perhaps like Giulio Regeni did. In fact

Wikipedia [W64] doesn't say this but Giulio has been able to register at Oxford without having any real diploma or degree that would have enabled him to register at any University. In the early articles I have read from the News [A30] it clearly emerged that Giulio only had the Italian GCSE, which he finished at 13 years of age as everyone. With that diploma he couldn't register for any University except for the United World College in New Mexico [A46], where he spent two years, and from there he had the papers to register at Oxford. The United World College is the only school he could have registered with, and from there he found recommendations for diplomas and degrees he never had; two years in New Mexico with the priests was all he needed to register at Oxford and then Cambridge. But later he was murdered in Cairo doing research about Trade Union in Egypt."

"Wow, that is sad" he commented.

"Yes, it is, and even sadder was his family calling for Justice. But I have to repeat myself; I wouldn't want to give the wrong impression. The problem is not these two cases I have introduced or the many they stand for; the problem is the tradition of bribery and blackmail, in fact they print fake passports and degrees for friends they can control, while blackmailing honest people for the documents they have rights to. The problem are the true degrees and the lawsuits that vanish into thin air, in the Courtrooms, the perjury of public officers and the lives of honest people tormented by this brotherhood of gangsters pretending to be above the law for moral reasons."

"I can see, it's all about God and Caesar, but try to imagine for a moment Regeni's mother, what she may feel".

"After undermining the Law and pretending to be above it, calling for the Secular Ideals of Justice doesn't sound right, does it? I wonder was she praying to God or the priests? She was so proud when that dodgy College in New Mexico chose Giulio for the Baccalaureate Course, and helped him with the shortcut to Oxford. Now, try to imagine if Giulio or Ms Kyenge were asked for a favour, after such favours they received. Do you believe they could refuse to help the brotherhood back, by helping someone else like them, with some more dodgy documents from the Public Offices? Do you believe they could refuse, or would be blackmailed and forced into it? Do you believe they would be loyal to the law of Caesar, or to the brotherhood?"

"I can see this, yes" he said with a nod.

"Now the family of Giulio may be told that Giulio didn't have the prerequisite to join any University but only favours from priests and recommendations for diplomas and degrees he never had. But she could also be told that Giulio was just another good fascist, pretending to transform the Secular Ideals into Catholic Legacy. In fact, a Catholic College would never disclose any Secular Value in their lectures and it would be a profanity, especially concerning the Secular Values of Justice; nonetheless in his mind he was doing Trade Unions studies, as if Trade Unions and Secular Justice could have possibly ever been Catholic Legacy.

But, as you said, it's all about God and Caesar" I said shaking the book of McIntire in my hand once again.

"I understand what you're saying" he said with a nod.

"Ok. Play this game. Put yourself in the shoes of someone working in the office at the University; I filled the forms claiming I have a Degree at Verona University, but later the professors from Verona did not confirm the documents I gave you, with their signature on it, what would you do? Would you believe them or me?"

Put the case I told you that I am Luca, but also the Consulate was not to confirm any of the legal documents they have issued shortly before, would you believe them or me?"

"I understand what you are saying, they are the authorities, but this is not supposed to happen. This is intolerable, unacceptable; how was it possible for someone to do all of this and get away with it?"

"Well, it is possible that they make the documents, and then reject your complaint. It is possible because they write it, with the stamps of the State, and then they will force you to conform like a puppet to whatever they wrote, and if you resist, if you don't comply, you are resisting to Public Officers. They can reinvent you on paper, like a character of a novel, and prosecute you for the story they wrote. Because they don't lie; they are reliable Institutions, and if they didn't confirm your degree it is only because you don't have one, and if you don't stop pretending to have Justice and Rights that you don't have, you may also be arrested.

The Italian Offices made my degree vanish into thin air, they made me into an impostor, and then, after years, when it came out I was not a liar but a victim, I was accused of having good reasons to organize revenge, retaliation, and could have taken Justice into my hands and plot terrorist attacks. But I was just claiming my rights, and the only people to gain something from these false accusations were the same people who vanished my papers in the first place.

I have asked a number of times if they could have taken me to Court, to see if I had rights to my personal documents, and to see if at any point they ever had any right to do anything of what they were doing; but they rather prefer to isolate and suspend all the Legal Rights of their victims, overcoming all boundaries for abuses and defamation. I have been vilified, tormented and tortured in the name of such High Moral Values above the law, just to cover up a bunch of gangsters, and actually I have no intention to forget what they have done.

It is obvious, all of this is possible only because Legal Suits are swept under the carpet, and the victims of the Institutions are systematically prevented from Justice, in the name of which kind of respectability and High Moral Value above the law common people cannot have, but Institutions can.

This is the Public Administration, and if they don't confirm that you have a degree you had better vanish before they make you vanish altogether with the papers. They can force you to live in a nightmare, in which you are not Luca anymore, and you will never have the chance to claim your rights because they act in the name of the Public Order and Safety and have Reason of State on their side. Do you believe Dr David Kelly was as unreliable as Tony Blair [W68] was pretending? Do you remember Dr David Kelly [W55], the weapon expert?" I asked, trying to express the violence of the false accusations and slander Dr Kelly had to suffer while defending his opinion under his personal responsibility.

"I do remember; it was at the time of the war in Iraq and the Hutton Inquiry [W70][A32], wasn't it?"

"Dr Kelly was just trying to be responsible for his own opinion as a consultant, but Tony Blair was demanding a different response, legitimating the invasion, so that he could have blamed Kelly if no weapons of mass destruction were found later.

The domesticated consulting Tony Blair was expecting from Kelly, Tony had to find from the NHS, in order to legally certify that Dr. Kelly was insane and suicidal, and his report unreliable.

Now, knowing of the well-organized racket behind Kyenge, Regeni and the many more friends they have in the offices, do you believe any of them receiving favours could refuse to help the brotherhood in return, or would they rather be blackmailed and forced into it?

"Yes; I can see that happening" he commented dismayed.

"In a similar way they said I was inventing stories, and that I was suicidal, as a threat, while forcing me into a paperless situation that was never resolved. I have been deprived of my civil rights and they made it impossible for me to hire a lawyer. In fact I was told that because I didn't have a passport I couldn't hire a lawyer either.

I would really like to ask Mr Tony Blair if he was concerned about Civil Rights in Europe or the Law of Man when my papers went missing, or was he rather motivated to cover up his friends in the public offices, faking documents in the name of his Moral Leader above the law. In fact I am definitely sure that my name is Luca, but they can fake your name and charge you as if you were the impostor; there is no control and no way to complain.

But it has to be clear, they do this to protect society from dangerous criminals, and with this motivation they justify whatever they do, and for instance in my case they had to deal with someone pretending to be Luca, against their will, and the will of God. They can make you paperless, and force you to live as a paperless, within the confines of their lies, the true lies of the Institutions.

Maybe it sounds like a story of the Godfather, but this is worse. Yes, this story is exposing a millenary system of Corruption pretending to blackmail people for documents they have rights to, but this is not the only way corruption works. Corruption is not just money for favours or papers; if someone gives you documents you have no rights for, later you will be blackmailed, and forced to obey the brotherhood, whatever they will ask you, forever. This is all they want from you; to control you like a puppet, forever.”

“I can see this, yes; and your family? I believe you have a family, couldn't they help you with this? He asked again.

“I am not sure I want my family getting involved with this. Years ago my mother called the office in Milan about the passport, but she was told to go there personally because the office couldn't provide information on the telephone. So, she took 3 hours by train to go to the office and once there she was told to tell me to go there, because they couldn't provide her any information and basically she wasted her time. I have to do this myself.

After a while my mother suggested that I should forget what had happened, but if I were to forget it, she would have to forget she had a son, because I am pretty sure I was at the University of Verona, and I have passed all my exams.”

“This is awful to hear” he commented.

“You are right, but if I had to take that advice, I couldn't take only the part she liked. If I am not Luca, degree at the Verona University, in evidence I cannot be her son either, because I know I was at the Verona University and her son was not.

About the degree the story was in the Verona daily newspaper, L'Arena di Verona, long before they made a paperless and a terrorist out of me, but what did it matter? The Prosecutor in Verona Mr Guido Papalia after more than one year dismissed the case because the vanishing of my degree was an Act of God, like my degree was in the hands of God and not in those of the Godfather, the guardian of the Archives. Also the European Office OLAF didn't believe it was an Act of God, and sent my Legal Claim to the Court of Justice in Milan but also the Prosecutor Corrado Carnevali flushed the legal suit down the loo, like his colleague the prosecutor in Verona did sometime before."

"This is really a nightmare. I understand why you prefer to leave your family out of this, but what are you doing then?"

"Now I do videos on YouTube, repeating on the Internet the Legal Claims the prosecutors caused to vanish from the Courts of Justice. Recently I have made a video to expose once again this system of corruption, and the Italian Government has banned it. It is so obvious some Moral Authority must have seen the video in order to ban it; I wonder how they could ban the video, without watching it, and without investigating the claim in it.

The video was addressed to the new nominated Head of the Police Alessandro Pansa [A28], with the hope he could find the Legal Claims hiding under the carpets. The video was showing the Minister for Justice Paola Severino [A18] reporting a backlog of 9 millions Legal Claims, stocked in the archives of the Courts of Justice; a number equal to 15% of the entire population. Plus you have to add the best cases, lurking under the carpets, to make sense of the morality of the Judicial System.

I also tried with defamation of character, to be sued for insulting the people involved in the happenings, but also this approach didn't get the expected result; probably because I am simply telling the truth, and this is not defamation but certified reality, nobody ever took the trouble to resolve this mess. It is a legally certified mess with the signature of the most honourable professors and reliable institutions, but nobody could ever find the time of day to look into it, for the sake of respect for the law, or Justice.

In conclusion, they cover up each other the same as gangsters do, but if I say that the Prosecutor Corrado Carnevali is a mobster, and a liar, like all the other people involved, nobody will complain to the Court for defamation because what I am saying is true.

I don't see many options. Either the European Union imposes Justice by the code of the law of man, also to mobsters and to counterfeiters with high moral values above the law, or Europe exposes itself as an accomplice of this mafia, demonstrating the kind of civilized place Europe is, able to offer refuge to any refugee but unable to guarantee personal documents to the European citizens.

"In what language do you do your videos, in English or Italian?" he asked.

"I have some in Italian, and some in English."

"I would like to watch some" he said, picking the smartphone out of his pocket. "Can you find it?" he asked.

"I have a few channels on YouTube. Let me see. This may be a bit harsh, but it well represents the situation I had to face" I said, and then I clicked to start the video.

"Is this Aisling talking?" he asked.

"Yes, she helped me out with this video. We made a kind of interview" I said, and I restarted the video.

The Transcript of the video [\[A10\]](#)

Aisling: Hi Luca why did you come to England?

Me: I had a PhD offer from Leeds University

Aisling: And what happened then?

Me: Shortly after I arrived in England I had my passport stolen. I did go immediately to the Italian consulate and paid to start the procedure for a new passport but after almost one year I was informed I was not to have a new passport because I was cancelled from the population list

Aisling: Have you had a passport since then?

Me: No

Aisling: And what happened with the PhD offer?

Me: To register for the PhD offer I had to go again to the Italian consulate, this time to the legal office for the legal translation of my degree, with more stamps certified with the apostille. But later the professors in the picture of my degree ceremony, the professors Emilio Tiberi and Bianca De Bernardi, of the University of Verona, did not confirm to Leeds University the degree they have issued with signature stamps and photograph and made me into an impression, a counterfeiter

Aisling: Did you report this situation to the Italian consulate?

Me: Yes I did, but the Consulate refused to send the report to the relevant offices in Italy. They are not responsible for the documents they issue, with their signature on it

Aisling: What about travelling in the EU without a passport?

Me: The European commission OLAF later sent a report to the Court of Justice in Milan, exactly concerning my rights for travelling since I was clearly prevented from doing so without a passport, and also concerning my rights to have confirmation of my degree and fulfil the PhD opportunity I was offered. But the Prosecutor Corrado Carnevali has swept the report in the bin in order to preserve such high moral values above the law, the best of the Italian national tradition and culture

Aisling: So what happened then?

Me: If I told you that I am Luca Benatti, and the consul was to tell you that there is no such person as Luca Benatti, would you believe me or the consul? And if I told you that I have a degree from Verona University, but the professors from Verona did not confirm the degree they have issued, would you believe them or me? I am telling you, they fake documents in public offices, intentionally and systematically. In Italy the true degree becomes fake, and the fake become true, like acts of God, with the only difference that these are not by chance. They made me paperless like an illegal immigrant, and they did it with their signatures and stamps. And after redesigning my life with a new identity as a paperless person, they also had the courage to inform the police, and to pretend their victims should conform with their will, or they should be isolated, defamed, vilified tormented and tortured, as they did to me.

The screen of the smartphone turned black, and a creepy music started.

“The conversation with Aisling is ended” I said speaking over the video still running. “Now there is the recording of the conversation with Dissanayaka. This is what the authorities do to make their living, they cover up each other” I said trying to explain.

“I have seen it is changing; let me hear it” he said, asking for silence.

The music ended with a fading tolling bell, introducing the voice of Dissanayaka speaking.

Nuwan Dissanayaka: What we tried to do is establish what we think about the things we were told at the beginning. You are no different, I agree with you. But what we were told at the beginning ...

Me: (what??)

Nuwan Dissanayaka: All of this things, from the beginning we were told that you have mental illness, we are told that you are very risky, we were told all of these things.

Margaret: Yes, all of these things.

Nuwan Dissanayaka: And since that time what we have done, we have seen you on a regular basis, you have been kind enough to agree even if you didn't see the merit of doing so at the beginning, to see if there was anything we could see in term of illness, but also to try to support you with the things that you wanted to do, to get a bit more established and to be generally a bit happier with the way things are, not that... I know it won't make you happier, is not even whether. It is not, you know, it is a different thing isn't it?

Now, throughout the time we have seen you, my honest opinion of what I think, I believe in being honest, is that I don't see that you have an illness. What I see is that you had very difficult circumstances to have to deal with.

In terms of what we do, you know, we have a lack of illness going on. If we are not doing any psychological interventions that is relevant to any of these things, if we are not doing anything else than what are we doing?

Me: What are we dealing with?

Nuwan Dissanayaka: (over my voice) If you say, If you say that we, that you are the same person that you were before.

Me: I have never changed.

Nuwan Dissanayaka: But our response to you has changed, and the reason has changed is because we needed to establish ourselves

Me: What I find very funny is that nobody of you ever asked himself how could a person live in this situation, with no passport, with degree cancelled, job opportunity cancelled

Nuwan Dissanayaka: (over my voice) how do you know? How do you know that nobody asked themselves these questions? I asked myself these questions. I think it is an intolerable way to have to live...

I think, it is an intolerable way to have to live.

I think, it is an intolerable way to have to live.

I think, it is an intolerable way to have to live.

[End of the Video]

The video ended repeating the last sentence of Dissanayaka, fading in the silence of the park.

"Who is this man, with whom you had this conversation?" Jason asked, after a few moments.

"That was the recording I made with my mp3 player, after the anti-terror Police arrived and I was arrested. Did you hear what he said? That was Dissanayaka, the Psychiatrist for the Forensic Assessment, informing me that someone was accusing me of being a risk to society, and not the opposite way around. He never mentioned the name of the people accusing me of having a mental illness and being a terrorist plotting revenge and massacres. This is my true and documented experience; one day I received a PhD offer, and the next day I was paperless like an illegal immigrant, with a bunch of mobsters making up a story just to cover up their crimes. It was not by chance these honest informants never said a word concerning the vanishing of my personal documents, but only defamed and slandered me, just to cover up the situation I was reporting since the start a few years before. Definitely the Police should have paid more attention distinguishing the victims from the offenders. It wasn't me who was the criminal, but these anonymous informants, fabricating documents in public office and then accusing their victims with false accusations. This is what happened, and then the Police cover them up, because everything truly happened with the best intentions, and their worries were well justified by the evidence I was paperless. Like making people paperless, or false accusations, could possibly be legal" I said, still with a bitter taste in my mouth. "They made me paperless, and then victimized and tormented me, trying to make me to conform to their will. In fact, despite the evidence, the Public Administration doesn't cause documents to vanish in the offices, and if my personal documents couldn't find confirmation the only possible reason could be me, being an impostor. Isn't it? Because Italians are dodgy!"

"This is awful, a nightmare. When did it happen, all of this?" he asked again.

"About 10 years ago."

"And then, what happened with the Police? What did they do?"

"The police were not concerned about the illegalities I was victim of. To them it didn't matter I was paperless and targeted with false accusations; their only concern was to impose all these illegalities on me, as it could possibly be legal. I was arrested, and then you heard from his voice what Dissanayaka said, «There is a lack of illness going on, what are we doing here?» It was so obvious both the Police and the Psychiatrist were completely unaware of the target of their mission, which was to isolate, vilify, torment and torture the victims of their honest and reliable colleagues, anonymous informants tampering documents in the offices.”

“Do you know who did this to you?” he asked

“A bunch of Anonymous Informants with High Moral Values above the law, good enough to mislead the Police into pursuing the victims rather than the offenders. I would bet the same people responsible for my documents were also the same responsible for the false accusations; they made me into an impostor, and nobody ever asked them to prove their accusations, or to be responsible for their actions.”

“What you are saying is ruthless, and then what happened? Did you get your passport in the end?”

“No” I said smiling. “When it became clear I had no weapons of mass destruction, but I was rather the victim of false and unsubstantiated accusations, the Police gave up and didn’t take any action, leaving the scene of the investigation as they found it.

But you imagine from the start I had to go to the Consulate for the Legal translation of my Degree, and then the Professors in the photograph of the degree ceremony didn’t confirm the documents they have issued. They knew the photographer was taking pictures in front of a number of people and friends, but what did it matter? The offices are far above all of this; they can make you vanish, with their signatures, and then pretend it was an Act of God and blame you for being the problem. Could you imagine this? Imagine it happened to you, what would you do? Imagine someone comes to you and tells you that you are not Jason, and you are pretending to be Jason, and you may be a risk to society, and they have to take care of you. You imagine being there for real, taking notes and taping them because, despite the fact that it is in front of you and you are living it, you cannot believe it yourself what is going on. Try to put yourself into these shoes.”

“I can see what you are saying. The offices supposed to help you in the situation and provide your personal documents, in reality made you paperless, and you had no place to go to claim your rights. In your shoes probably I would have done the same as you did, and I would have had to pass through a very difficult time; also that man in the video said exactly these same words. It was really outrageous and unbelievable you had to pass through this.”

“I agree it was outrageous, especially because what was intolerable for Dissanayaka could be imposed on me as a normal situation to be accepted. What the fuck is this shit? Where is it, the moral integrity of these kind of people, never responsible for what they do and pretending to judge concerning being responsible and distinguish good from bad? What about this side of reality, when the intolerable may be imposed on the victims of abuses and crimes perpetrated in the name of what? Was that the law of man they enforced, or the High Moral Values of the System of Corruption blackmailing people for documents people had rights to?”

“That was a mess; really hard to believe” he said. “You did it right to record the conversation and make a video with it; all of this, is really hard to believe. Yes, that man to help you should have informed the Police; but you said the Police came just before him, and were not bothered about your personal documents. Also the Italian Consulate should have helped you, but how?”

“Well, after my personal documents were vanished into thin air, definitely it was not the Italian Consulate going to defend my rights; it was the Consulate that made me paperless, and the others just covered up of the situation, slandering and vilifying the victims.

Also a few years before, when I contacted the Citizen Advice Bureau for advice, they also found it difficult to believe I was still waiting for the replacement of my passport after almost two years, and suggested I talk to a solicitor. So I did, and later the solicitor with a letter informed me that the Italian Consulate would have been pleased to provide the passport for which I already paid in advance, but despite what the solicitor said in writing I never received the passport anyway, or any temporary replacement.

So, after a few months, as a last resort I went to the emergency department of the hospital, asking what I was supposed to do because I was paperless and the situation was deeply detrimental and preventing also the possibility to travel back home. I asked for a witness to see the unacceptable situation I was forced into, but the doctor in the emergency department believed I was inventing something. «Italy is a Civilized place» she said, and I was arrested because the reality I was reporting was not as socially acceptable as her imagination, and as an immediate consequence of that belief, in a matter of minutes I had to repeat the story all over again to Dr. Buller, the Psychiatrist on duty I had to explain again that I had no passport and the situation was causing several problems. I explained the Citizen Advice Bureau invited me to contact the Solicitor Hyams, but I only had the renewal of old promises rather than the new ID I had to pay for in advance to the Consulate in 2002, immediately after the theft. And last, I had to explain the integrity of the professors in the photograph of my degree ceremony not confirming the degree they have issued with their signatures, stamps and photographs, and turning me into an impostor.

The next day Dr Buller verified the situation, also contacting the University, and when the interpreter arrived and confirmed the documents from the Consulate exactly as I was reporting, Dr Buller stated it was his opinion and the opinion of the clinical team that I didn't have any psychological or psychiatric issue to justify me being there, and I was dismissed. This is what Dr Buller stated in June 2004, 2 years after I was paperless. But in conclusion, when the socially unacceptable situation became a true reality, that situation was imposed on me as a normal situation to be accepted.”

“I can see what you mean; the Psychiatrist should have called the Police from the start, at least to inform them of your struggle. How long could you wait for your documents?”

“This is what I was after. The emergency service have a duty to report to the Police the crimes they become aware, and my intention was to report the situation as intolerable as it was; so intolerable they also couldn’t believe it from the start. In fact being paperless is a breach of Human Rights, because it reduces people to slavery; because it impedes normal life, like registering for the PhD I was offered, or even going back home. Nevertheless I was dismissed, like the intolerable situation I was forced into, could be legally imposed on me. Also the solicitor Hyams was useless; what was I supposed to do?”

The following year, in July 2005, the European Office OLAF sent my complaint to the Court of Justice in Milan reporting the situation of my personal documents and my freedom to fulfill the opportunity I was offered, but the Prosecutor Corrado Carnevali swept the case under the carpet, because it had never happened, and eventually it was nothing like corruption or blackmail but an Act of God, absolutely out of his jurisdiction. Then, in October 2006 I decided to write to the MP for High Education Bill Rammell, inviting to report the situation to the European Offices, and find a solution.”

“And what happened?” he asked curious, like if I said something he also would have tried.

“The reply said there was nothing he could have done, and suggested to contact a solicitor in Italy. Then, a few days later I was arrested, because someone had the insolence to pretend I could have been deluded and organized revenge, and turn into a terrorist, and plot mass murders as consequence of the situation I was reporting and complaining as unjust and illegal. Since then, they went on and on with false accusations until they reported me to the Anti Terror Police and Dissanayaka arrived for his Forensic Assessment.

You heard what he said, did you? «We are told that you are risky» and then, «There is a lack of illness going on, what are we doing here?» I told him from the start about the High Moral Values of these false and anonymous accusations he took into so much consideration. I also asked him «What are we dealing with?» to recall the system of mafia and corruption and blackmails I was complaining, against the evidence of my rights to my personal documents.

During that meeting we have just listened to he didn't say the name of the mysterious informants, but what if they were not anonymous at all. I well remember Claire Flannigan providing her professional advices and informing Dissanayaka personally. There was also a Policeman present at that meeting, but obviously they preferred to resolve the situation in accordance with their notion of good and evil, and as consequence of such morality I was handed over to Dissanayaka in high security as a potential terrorist.

Do you see? It is only old style witch-hunting. They don't need to prove their accusations, and you may be held responsible for what you may do, but not them, for the crimes in evidence they have perpetrated. They vanish people into thin air, in the office, and then pretend the victims are the problem, and should be isolated. This is what they do, and whatever paranoia they have, it will become a real threat to your own life, despite the only evidence is their own fear, motivated by the abuses, illegalities and crimes they know they have perpetrated, intentionally. They know the violence, lies and cover-up they are responsible for, and in this perspective Flannigan never had to sign anything; she always made someone else do the job for her, like Dissanayaka for instance also did.”

“And after all of this, you still have no passport” he asked, expressing his concern.

“Yes, still today I have no passport” I replied.

“Let me say, it is really intolerable; they really gave you a hard time” he said repeating again. “I am concerned; and this is disturbing. Because this problem you had, it was all about personal documents, but it is so obvious you exist. I mean, how could someone be paperless? It must be an impostor, but in all cases it would be an infringement of the law. Why didn't the Police do anything?" he asked again.

"Don't ask me, I am only the victim. From my perspective the best part was Dissanayaka saying that the situation was intolerable, but after all, the intolerable could be imposed on me as a standard, like it could possibly be a normal situation to be accepted. It is also illegal! Tell me they are not criminals and are not aware of what they do.

Anyway, after all of this I still have no passport, I cannot travel, and the people responsible for these documents and false accusations never had a problem about what they have done. It was as if they had a right to do it; as if they could be above the law and make people vanish. Do you believe I am free to travel without my passport? And what about accusing the victims, just to pervert the course of Justice? I have been tortured while these mobsters continue blackmailing their victims, exactly in the same way, in the name of the same High Moral Values above the law. Is this absolute power, or what?" I asked, shaking the book of McIntire in the air.

"Good luck the European Union is committed to guaranteeing Civil Rights, Passports and Freedom to travel to the European Citizens; I wonder if it works for everybody or only for people like Kyenge, Regeni and their friends."

"It won't be easy to expose all of this, and probably the Government itself would stop your Claim for Justice, as they did before."

"If we don't have rights to our personal documents, what rights do we really have? Try to imagine someone makes you vanish, and you have to live like a paperless person just to make real their dream of omnipotence or whatever paranoia they may have. Imagine being acknowledged that the situation is intolerable but it is also too much to cope with. So leave as it is; carry on sweeping people under the carpet."

"I understand what you are saying" he said smiling. "It is a catch-22. There is no way out. They make you paperless, and then pretend the problem is you."

"Yes, and how to take this mafia to Court, if the Courts vanish the Legal Claims into thin air, or under the carpets?"

The European Union itself has sent my Legal Claim to the Court in Milan, and the Court dismissed the case, like it never happened, or worst, like God was the only one responsible for the vanishing of my documents.

At this time, looking at Kyenge, Regeni and their friends, I am to believe this mafia is promoted in Europe as Culture and Tradition, like a revival of the dark ages, when Europe was all united.

The European Union! What a shame! Sometime ago I wrote to the European Union; I should write again and ask if this is the case, but I had reply only from Jean Kутten.”

“Who is Jean Kутten?” he asked.

“At the time he was member of the staff of the European Green Party. After one year I was waiting I contacted the European Parliament, and concerning the problems I was having with my personal documents Jean forwarded my email to two Italian members of the Parliament, Andrea Vettori and Monica Frassoni.”

“That was good of him, and then what happened?”

“Nothing happened. The Italian EUMPs never replied to the email. Probably the Italian EUMPs didn’t like to be involved with friends of friends, faking documents in Public Offices. They could be blackmailed as well, and get into trouble. I told you, sometime ago I made a video on YouTube repeating the legal claim the OLAF office sent to the Court in Milan, and later the Italian Government has banned the video.”

“You mean YouTube has banned the video.”

“No. The Italian Government banned the video; it is banned in Italy only. YouTube never had any reason to ban it, because there are no copyrights infringements. It is only in Italy people cannot watch it, and the problem is the Italian Censorship, sweeping from the Internet the complaints repeating the legal claims swept under the carpets in the Courts of Justice.”

“Thank Goodness there is YouTube then, but what you are saying is outrageous; and after all of this, you still have the same problem. For how long?”

“By now, more then 10 years. My passport was stolen in 2002.”

“It was a good part of your life. Sure this story has changed your life; I can see why you like this book of McIntire” he said, but on the spot I couldn’t answer.

“I don’t know about refugees and illegal immigrants, but for sure people made paperless in Europe by European Countries don’t have any rights at all, not even to report the crimes they are victims of.”

“Sorry for my curiosity but, have you ever been involved with Politics, or Religion, or anything to justify a kind of retaliation like this” he asked.

“No, I have no Religious beliefs. I like History, and Philosophy, Science, Arts, but never were Religion or Politics within my hobbies or passions, ever.”

“May I give you an extra nightmare? What if Amazon-Kindle was to ban your book, like has happened with the video on the YouTube. I have seen banned books on Kindle and Amazon before, and yours wouldn’t be the first one.” he said, with a convincing expression.

“I don’t think so; I hope not” I said rejecting the idea. “Eventually the Italian Government may ban it in Italy, where they have jurisdiction, but cannot ban it from Amazon. Like YouTube, Kindle and CreateSpace have no real reasons to ban it; why should it be banned? I am only writing about the High Moral Values inspiring our Courts of Justice to the Trust in God they have, rather than the Justice and Morality coming from the Law of Man, which is actually the meaning of the Law, against violence and abuses of intentional criminals pretending to be above the Law.

Why should my book be banned?” I asked again, almost reassuring myself there would be no reason. The Satanic Verses of Salman Rushdie wasn’t banned, but eventually was encouraged and promoted in the name of western freedom of speech. What is this? The western democracy now has a problem exploring the reasons why we would be better trust in God for Justice, in the after-life, rather than the law of man on this side of the grave? Try to explain they didn’t know what they were doing, making my documents vanish and tormenting me for years and years. Try to explain what is intolerable for Dissanayaka can be imposed on me as a standard.

I cannot really see any reason why Kindle or anybody should ban it. This book is well documented, is not fiction, and I am not inventing anything; I am simply reflecting on the Values of Justice, corruption, and the Morality of the best education we could find in the schoolbooks. I understand that the people making their living out of this System of Values may be disappointed, but I don't believe anybody ever asked how the Catholic Heresies became Catholic Legacy."

"Your book may be banned exactly for the same reasons also the schoolbooks banned these meanings in the first place. Maybe they will take you to Court."

"Well, going to Court is exactly what I want. I would love to know if I had the rights to my personal documents."

"You don't need to go to Court for that. Of course you have those rights, but just like you, probably a number of people had their papers vanished. But you have mentioned the Catholic Heresies; Heresies are good reasons to ban books, don't you know? And what do you mean exactly by Catholic Heresies?" he asked.

"The Secular Value of Justice as we said, from the book of McIntire, is one of the best Catholic Heresy; but also the Freedom of Choice and the Freedom of Thought are Catholic Heresies. The problem doesn't really concern theoretical heresies but practical obedience. All they want is obedience, undisputed obedience and Absolute Power. In fact the freedom of thought and freedom of choice are the essential part of human nature, as God made it. It was God to make us all different from each other, but they don't like it; they want us like puppets. Just obedience, and absolute Power, to do as it better suit them.

I'll tell you a story to outline a few points.

When the early Christians arrived in Rome, Rome was a polytheistic town with a number of Gods from all over the provinces. One God more or less was not to make any difference, and all cults were contributing peacefully to the Public good. Then the Christians arrived, demanding exclusive worship, disrespecting the other cults and cultures, and pretending the law of Rome was not the true law to obey but there would be another law to obey above it.

It was exactly the pretence of having higher moral values above the law to make them uncivilized barbarians, and narrow-minded, unable to accept that different people may have different cults and beliefs. Nevertheless they do exactly the same today, exactly for the same reasons: the Moral Supremacy of God above the Laws of Man. What a surprise if our personal identity may be wiped out, and also our name may be taken from us. There is no right we may really claim, and the only concessions we have for Justice are confined to the afterlife!

Why do you believe the Prosecutor dismissed the case stating the vanishing of my personal documents was an Act of God? There was their signature on it, not God's, but in their view they talk on behalf of God, they tell us God's Will, and have High Moral Values above the Laws and good reasons we cannot understand. I don't really know why we still have Courts of Justice, since it is Catholic belief the Law of Man is not the true Law to obey, and we are meant to be just like puppets, with no rights and no freedoms.

Why be surprised if the Public Offices blackmail people for documents people have rights to, and the Courts of Justice vanish the lawsuits reporting the system of corruption and mafia. You imagine in Italy the medical assistance for abortion was legalized after a referendum, but over 70% of doctors and pharmacists refuse to provide their assistance, and 100% of the Prosecutors in the Courts of Justice tolerate this disruption of Public Service. The problem isn't just the office for degrees, or passports, and the Courts of Justice are just useless if not to acknowledge us and remark the origin of the High Moral Values they enforce, not by the Law but God's Will, despite the Courts are paid to defend and apply the Law of man against the aggression of criminals pretending to be above

“Do you believe in God?” he asked.

“I cannot really tell, but I know for sure the Earth will always be a polytheistic place. Looking at the Bible printed in the Sky, the Bible of the Book of Nature, eventually we could say it was God who made us all different, with different opinions, but concerning the God of the Catholic Holy Scripture I don't know. The only evidence I see is that his followers are still the same uncivilized barbarians they were when they first arrived in Rome; a bunch of mobsters with High Moral Values above the Law. Can you see, it is all about High Moral Values above the law, corroding the Institutions from the inside?”

I looked over the trees; the sun was on its way to disappearing behind the line of the horizon, and it was time to go home.

“Uncivilized barbarians, with High moral values above the law” he said smiling; “Let me say, you have quite a story to tell. I will stop by again to know more about the book of McIntire. I like to know the end.”

“Me too” I replied with a nod. “See you later” I said, and then I made my way following the direction of the stars in the sunset.

Appendix

(To whom it may concern)

To those who may believe this is a novel, I spent long walks trying to understand what would be best: if I had to publish documents to support my words, how many documents would be necessary, and what would be the definitive evidence if common sense and logic don't make sense anymore?

On the following page is the photocopy of my stolen passport (image 1).

As you can see it was issued on the 28th September 2001 by the Passport Office of the Questura of Milan, the Police Headquarters.

The following year the details of my passport were registered with my address on more papers from the same Questura, and confirmed in person by Police Inspector.

The year after my passport was issued, I used it to identify myself to the Police Office in Milan, in order to collect documents.

On the following page is copy of a Police Report signed by the Police inspector, reporting the details of the stolen passport and the address I was living, my property in Milan.

Please note this document was issued on the 12th March 2002 by the same Questura of Milan also my passport was issued.

Il Verbalizzante

I complained to the President of the Italian Republic for the reasons I explained in this book, especially concerning education and research, and in 2002 I had the following reply. Please note it was 26th March 2002.

Not long later I had a PhD offer in England, but by then I was not Luca anymore, and I had no Degree anymore. I found myself paperless in England looking like an impostor, with the best wishes of the Italian Public Administration.

In the next page is copy of the Report of the theft of the passport. (image 4)

The theft happened on Sunday, and the next day I asked what to do. The Consulate told me to prepare a few documents and then to contact the Honorary Consul in Belfast to complete the procedure, and so I did. I went to the Police for the report of the theft, and with the photographs I filed the request with the Honorary Consul. He said the new passport would come in a matter of days.

Dear Sir

We can confirm that you reported your passport stolen.

I hope this is of assistance.

After I filed the request for new passport, the Consulate replied 09/06/2003 (1).

Put the case you had your passport stolen, abroad. Would that be tolerable to you if the Consulate were to reply after 9 months? And what about if the Consulate, after 9 months, was to inform you that you were to exceed 12 months period abroad, and decided for you that you were better to relocate? And what if the Consulate, after 9 months, was to write you a letter asking your address, like it wasn't on the letter they just sent.

After I received the following letter, I informed the Consulate my address was on the letter they sent, and my reasons to be in the U.K. were temporary, personal matters concerning a University Course, and I would have already moved if I only had the passport.

This is the rendering of the letter you see in the next page, which is the reply I received from the Consulate after the request for new passport filed 9 months before (image 5).

Dear Mr. Benatti , following your request for a new passport – you subscribed in presence of the Honorary Consul in Belfast – I am honored to inform you that the competent Italian Authorities have notified this office that your name "HAS BEEN CANCELLED FROM THE GENERAL REGISTRY OF THE RESIDENTS IN THE TOWN OF MILAN because of YOU WERE UNREACHABLE".

In the light of what is explained above, I ask you to notice that before we could proceed to the issue of a new passport in your name, this General Consulate has to ask you to register to the A.I.R.E. (Registry of the Italian resident abroad) of the town of Milan. For these reasons I consider it useful to inform you that, under the law n. 470/1988, the citizen who relocate his residence abroad for a period exceeding 12 months HAS to ask to register to the A.I.R.E. of the town of last residence in Italy.

Therefore, in order to proceed as you asked, I would be pleased if you could fill in, subscribe and return the attached form to this office. Waiting for your reply, with Best Regards a seguito della Sua richiesta di rilascio di nuovo passaporto – da Lei sottoscritta alla presenza del Console onorario d'Italia in Belfast –, mi prego informarLa che le competenti Autorita' italiane hanno qui reso noto che il Suo nominativo "E' STATO CANCELLATO DALL'ANAGRAFE DELLA POPOLAZIONE RESIDENTE DEL COMUNE DI MILANO per Sua IRREPERIBILITA' "

Alla luce di quanto sopra esposto La prego di voler notare che prima di poter procedere ad un rilascio di passaporto a Suo nome, questo Consolato Generale dovrà prima richiedere la Sua iscrizione all'A.I.R.E. (Anagrafe degli Italiani Residenti all'Estero) del suddetto Comune di Milano. A tale proposito ritengo utile renderLe noto che, ai sensi della legge n. 470/1988, il cittadino che trasferisce la propria residenza all'estero per un periodo superiore ai dodici mesi DEVE richiedere la propria iscrizione all'A.I.R.E. del Comune di ultima residenza in Italia.

Al fine, pertanto, di procedere a quanto sopra Le sarò grata se vorrà compilare, sottoscrivere e restituire a questo Ufficio l'allegato formulario.

Certa di un Suo sollecito riscontro.

Coridali saluti,

Dear Mr Benatti

Concerning your request for a new passport I am to inform you that:

1 – The Central Police Station informed us that you have been cancelled from the General Registry of the population resident in Milan, because you were unreachable at the census 2001

2 – This Consulate can issue a passport to you only if a - You are resident in the consular district of Scotland and Northern Ireland

b - After mandate authorization from the competent territorial authority where you reside, if you reside outside this consular district.

Therefore we renew the request to inform us of your current residence, I inform you that under the art. 6 of the law 27.10.1988, the citizen moving his residence abroad from a town in Italy, has to declare to the consular office within 90 days from moving. I will be pleased if you could inform us if you intend to remain in this consular circumscription for a period longer than 12 months.

We wait to receive as requested above.

Oggetto: Passaporto

Gentile Signor Benatti,

In riferimento alla Sua richiesta di rilascio passaporto Le comunico quanto segue:

- 1) La Questura di Milano ha reso noto allo scrivente che Lei è stato cancellato dall'Anagrafe della Popolazione residente del Comune di Milano per irreperibilità al censimento del 2001;
- 2) Questo Consolato Generale può rilasciarLe un passaporto soltanto nei seguenti casi:
 - a) Lei risulta risiedere nella circoscrizione consolare della Scozia e Irlanda del Nord;
 - b) su delega dell'autorità competente per residenza qualora quest'ultima sia al di fuori di questa circoscrizione consolare.

Nel rinnovarLe pertanto la richiesta di comunicarci la Sua attuale residenza anagrafica, Le faccio presente che, ai sensi dell'art.6 Legge 27.10.1988, n.470, il cittadino italiano che trasferisce la propria residenza da un Comune italiano all'estero deve farne dichiarazione all'ufficio consolare entro novanta giorni dalla data di espatrio. Le sarò quindi grato se potrà comunicare stesso mezzo se Lei intende rimanere in questa circoscrizione consolare per un periodo superiore a dodici mesi.

Nell'attesa di ricevere quanto sopra richiesto porgo distinti saluti,

IL CONSOLE GENERALE

A few months after I received the last letter from the Consulate, in January 2004 I decided to move to Leeds without a passport. In fact, after informing the Consulate I had my passport stolen, after I paid various fees almost one year before, I never had any replacement, not even a temporary one, but only the suggestion to relocate.

After contacting the University in Leeds, as suggested by the professor in Belfast, I had a PhD offer, so I had to return to the Consulate for the legal translation of my University Degree, but later the Professors in the picture of my degree ceremony didn't confirm the degree they issued, with their signature, stamps and photographs, and made me into an impostor.

So I had to return again to the Consulate, to complain about the vanishing of my degree, but the Consulate refused to report my legal suit to the competent offices in Italy, and as a consequence I sent it to the European Union, enquiring about my rights for traveling and my personal opportunities without my personal documents.

In the next page is the black and white version of the photograph of my graduation ceremony at the Verona University. You can see the full commission, but later, as I said, the same professors you see in the photograph didn't confirm the Degree they have issued, and made me into an impostor, a counterfeiter. (image 8)

I was living in my property in Milan.

The Questura Office of Milan (Head Police office) issued my passport, and sometime later the details of that Passport were reported by the Police Inspector of the same Questura on more documents.

Meanwhile, after the Passport, my University Degree also went missing, preventing me from fulfilling the opportunity I organized in autonomy.

Would you tolerate the Public Administration making you paperless, for years?

Would you tolerate a solicitor suggesting you conform to the will of the Consul and be the impostor, the traditional dodgy Italian, just to cover-up the Italian Mafia and the Public Administration blackmailing people for documents people have rights to, immediately and for free?

Dear Mr Benatti

Nationality

I have spoken with the Italian Consulate in Edinburgh.

They stress that you have never lost your nationality. You remain an Italian National.

When you reported your passport lost to the Italian Consulate they had to, under Italian law make checks with the police where you said you were resident. You instructed them that you were resident in Milan. The police in Milan reported that whilst they have no objection to you obtaining a replacement passport they could not authorise the Consulate to issue one as you were no longer resident in Milan. Rather you were resident in Northern Ireland.

The Italian Consulate advised that you must therefore register with them in order to obtain a replacement passport. I understand from my telephone conversation that you refused to do so.

In all the circumstances I strongly advise you now, given that you are living in Leeds to register with the Italian Consulate in Manchester. Once you have done so you will be able to obtain a replacement passport.

I have to advise that in the event that you do not wish to register with the Italian Consulate in Manchester then there is nothing else I can do to assist you. It seems that there is a very simply solution to obtaining a replacement passport and I would therefore advise you to contact the Manchester Consulate immediately.

I will keep my file open for seven days in the event that you require any further advice arising out of the contents of this letter. In the event that I do not hear from you within this time then I will take steps to close your file.

Yours sincerely

I do repeat, would you tolerate a solicitor suggesting you to conform to the will of the Consul and be the impostor, the traditional dodgy Italian, just to cover-up the Italian Mafia and the Public Administration blackmailing people for documents people have rights to, immediately and for free?

How long are people supposed to wait for a passport replacement, until the after-life?

Meanwhile, was I free to travel and fulfill the opportunities I organized in autonomy? And what about my Rights as EU Citizen? But probably as paperless, with no papers, I was not an EU Citizen anymore, was I?

I underline the Italian Consulate not only failed to issue the passport replacement in reasonable time but also refused to help with any kind of temporary Passport to let me return to Italy and resolve their problems with their forgeries concerning my address and my University Degree. In all this time and with all the problems they caused since the time I paid cash for my passport replacement and later my lost University Degree, the Consulate never provided any help, nothing more than what you can see, and the Consul never showed up to explain who was the impostor.

Dear Mr Benatti

I enclose a copy of the letter I sent you on the 10 March 2004. The Italian Consulate gave clear advice as to how you go about obtaining a replacement passport and I strongly advise you once again to follow their advice, contained in my letter of the 10 March 2004 and report to the Italian Consulate in Manchester.

You mentioned in my telephone conversation with you on the 16 March 2004 that you have a property dispute in Milan. I unfortunately cannot advise as to Italian property law and would recommend that in those circumstances you seek advice from an Italian lawyer who specialises in property disputes.

I write to inform you that I am now closing the file of papers in respect of the above matter.

Dissatisfied with the Solicitor Hyams, and not willing to be the impostor, or scapegoat covering up for the Italian Culture and Tradition of Mafia's, bribery and blackmail, I went to the Emergency of the NHS to report that I was prevented from going back home and from registering the PhD offer I had, and since making people paperless is criminal I asked for the intervention of the Police. The Police told me to go to the Citizen Advice Bureau, and from there to the solicitor Hyams. As I know the Emergency department of Hospitals have an obligation to report to the Police the crimes they become aware of, and I wanted to report that I was paperless for a long time, and prevented from traveling without real justification.

The doctor at the Emergency could not believe my situation, because Italy is a democratic place within the EU, and does not make people paperless. Therefore I got arrested (sectioned) because the doctor believed his preconceptions and prejudices more than the photograph of my graduation Degree Ceremony, or the letters of the Consulate or the Solicitor.

Please note I was invited to Leeds University, and after disclosing my project I had my PhD offer but could not register because the professors in the photograph of my graduation ceremony at the Verona University did not confirm the degree they have issued and made me to be an impostor or liar.

But References should not go missing, as they are official documents of the Curriculum of every student; this is evident through my Curriculum that I had the best marks from the Professors in the Photograph of my Graduation Ceremony but I became paperless as if I had never been there.

Dear Dr Mahmood

LUCA BENATTI D.O.B. [redacted] address
100 ARCHERY ROAD, LEEDS LS2 9AU

First of all I would like to thank you for agreeing to see Luca in your outpatient clinic on the 16th June 2004 at 2:00pm. I felt it was important to write to you regarding the outcome of his period of assessment on ward 3 at the Becklin Centre.

Despite the fact that Luca remained an inpatient, under Section 2 of the Mental Health Act for a period of 3 weeks', the clinical team did not arrive at a definitive diagnosis. However, a differential diagnosis would include: -

1. No mental illness.
2. A personality that contained paranoid traits.
3. Paranoid illness.

At the time of discharge Luca was not on any medication.

For your information I have included a copy of Peter Scanlon's SW assessment, which was conducted on the 15th May 2004.

Certainly during Luca's 3-week assessment on the ward, there was little additional information gleaned regarding social and family circumstances, and also the circumstances leading to admission.

During Luca's time on the ward, he was agreeable to me discussing his case with Professor Stephen Westland, Professor at the School of Design at Leeds University.

Professor Westland confirmed that Luca had contacted him, initially via e-mail, and it transpired that Luca did have some interesting ideas regarding the Luscher test. Subsequently Professor Westland suggested that Luca apply to do a PhD in the department. However, in order to pursue this Postgraduate course he had to be able to supply adequate references. Unfortunately, when Professor Westland pursued

It is difficult to explain how my Passport and my University Degree vanished at the same time, and the Consulate could not provide assistance of any kind. This is why Br Buller used the word conspiracy. But in reality they made me paperless for real, no theories or opinions on this, despite the promises of the Consulate to me first, then to the Police, than to the CAB and the solicitor, and then the NHS as well. But I couldn't travel with the promise of a Passport, could I?

Is this the moment they reduced me to slavery? After I reported again and again I was still waiting for my Passport? After I was complained my EU Rights and Freedom to travel and fulfill the opportunity I organized in autonomy were prevented?

Please note that there was nothing wrong with me, other than that I was paperless, could not travel, could not register the PhD I was offered, and without a Passport couldn't hire a decent Lawyer, and was not willing to be the impostor to cover-up the Consul, or to be paperless from an EU country and within EU borders.

Concerning the "frustration", I wonder how long dr Buller would have tolerated being paperless. I explained the situation, they verified and wrote it down, but apparently didn't understand the severity of the situation and that I was a victim. As if making people paperless, and as such reducing people into slavery, could possibly be legal or tolerable.

Please note I was trying to address the situation via "legal channels", but I was rather left paperless for some time more.

On the following page is the image 12

these references one referee did not reply, whilst the other only stated that they were aware that Luca had previously studied at their University. It certainly appears to be the case that Luca viewed these inadequate references as further evidence of a conspiracy by the Italian government, and a hidden agenda to prevent him developing any improvements in the Luscher test. It is important to note that the word (conspiracy) is my term not Luca's. Mr Scanlan's report also makes reference to the issue of Luca's lost passport. It is my understanding that the Italian authorities will issue him an Italian passport, but will provide him with one of the variety that is issued to Italians who are resident in the country. More specifically, Luca wants it clear on the passport that he is a citizen of Milan. However, that is clearly not the case at the present time, but Luca feels that they are being unreasonable. He was not aware that he would require a passport to travel within the EU.

Clearly Luca feels that some injustice has been done and has been seeking redress via legal channels. He has also e-mailed a host of people regarding the above issues. However, he denied any plans to retaliate against those in authority, and accepted that it would be tantamount to harassment to be constantly e-mailing or sending letters to the same person regarding his frustrations.

Throughout Luca's time on the ward he presented as very pleasant and at no point became irritable or hostile. Although frustrated with aspects of his current circumstances, he denied any active plans to end his life. Luca always presented casually but smartly dressed and denied any significant disturbance in his mood, appetite or sleeping pattern. It is also relevant that there was no evidence of any hallucinatory phenomena, ideas of reference, disorders of thought possession or passivity phenomena.

Throughout his admission Luca was unwilling to consider a trial of antipsychotic medication. Although my differential diagnosis included a paranoid illness, it was both my opinion and the opinion of the clinical team that Luca did not suffer from a mental illness, which was of a nature or degree, which warranted enforced treatment. Certainly there were no issues of risk apparent. Although frustrated with his situation Luca never appeared significantly distressed by it.

It is also worth noting that at one point we organised the presence of an Italian interpreter. In fact, they confirmed some aspects of Luca's story regarding patent laws in Italy.

In the 8 to 10 days prior to discharge, Luca went on brief periods of leave, which appeared to go quite well. When I reviewed him in the ward round on the 7th June he appeared settled in his mood and I therefore rescinded the Section 2. Luca is agreeable to attend outpatients appointments with yourself, and given that he resides in your catchment area it seems sensible to organise at least some initial aftercare.

You should receive a copy of the discharge summary in due course, but I felt it was important that you receive some information regarding Luca prior to seeing him in clinic.

Kind Regards

Yours sincerely

Application no. 4926/04
BENATTI v. Italy

Dear Sir,

I write to inform you that on 11 June 2004 the European Court of Human Rights, sitting as a Committee of three judges (N. Vajić, President, P. Lorenzen and V. Zagrebelsky) pursuant to Article 27 of the Convention, decided under Article 28 of the Convention to declare the above application inadmissible because it did not comply with the requirements set out in Articles 34 and 35 of the Convention.

In the light of all the material in its possession, and in so far as the matters complained of were within its competence, the Court found that they did not disclose any appearance of a violation of the rights and freedoms set out in the Convention or its Protocols.

This decision is final and not subject to any appeal to either the Court, including its Grand Chamber, or any other body. You will therefore appreciate that the Registry will be unable to provide any further details about the Committee's deliberations or to conduct further correspondence relating to its decision in this case. You will receive no further documents from the Court concerning this case and, in accordance with the Court's instructions, the file will be destroyed one year after the dispatch of this letter.

The present communication is made pursuant to Rule 53 § 2 of the Rules of Court.

Yours faithfully,

In July 2005 the OLAF office of the European Commission sent my legal claim to the Court in Milan, in fact without a passport I was clearly prevented from traveling, and with the vanishing of my degree I was also prevented from fulfilling the opportunities for the PhD I organized. But the Prosecutor in Milan, Corrado Carnevali, swept the claim under the carpet, like I didn't have any rights to my personal documents, or worst, like my only right was to conform to the High Moral Values of the National System of Corruption.

Egregio signor Benatti,

In data 20/06/2005 i miei uffici Le hanno comunicato informalmente a mezzo posta elettronica che l'esame dettagliato del suo esposto era in corso d'esame.

La informo ora che tale esame è terminato e che la conclusione già anticipata Le in via informale non può che essere confermata in questa sede.

Infatti, ciò che Lei ha segnalato riguarda comportamenti che risultano da un lato di stretta pertinenza delle Autorità nazionali italiane (amministrative e/o giudiziarie), e dall'altro eventi che non rientrano nelle competenze dell'OLAF, la cui missione è strettamente legata alla tutela degli interessi finanziari della Commissione Europea (Regolamento CE 1073/99).

Potendo tuttavia i medesimi fatti rientrare nelle eventuali competenze della Direzione generale della Concorrenza, con la presente lettera si provvede a trasmettere copia del suo esposto alla Direzione COMP, per quanto di eventuale pertinenza di quest'ultima.

Riteniamo inoltre doveroso trasmettere copia del suo stesso esposto alla competente autorità giudiziaria italiana (Sig. (quote from pag. 85)

The following year, in October 2006 I decided to write to the MP for High Education Bill Rammell, to report the situation to the European Offices for a solution.”

“And what happened?” he asked curious, like if I said something he also would have tried.

“The reply said there was nothing he could have done, and suggested to contact a solicitor in Italy. Then, a few days later I was arrested, because someone had the insolence to pretend I could have been deluded and organized revenge, and turn into a terrorist, and plot mass murders as consequence of the situation I was reporting and complaining as unjust and illegal. (quote from pag. 85)

(quote from pag 68)

So, I was forced into silence, in the confine of their lies, to make real their pretence I was not Luca, was not Degree at Verona University, and never had any reason or rights to claim. They can make your documents vanish, and then pretend the problem is you, not conforming to their will, the will of the Institutions; they can design you like a character from a novel, and you will never be able to complain. On the following page is copy of a letter from the Minister for Higher Education MP Bill Rammell. (image 16)

After trying the emergency department of the Hospital I wrote to MP Bill Rammell, asking him to help me to resolve the problem with the Italian Consulate, in respect of EU Laws concerning the freedom of traveling and opportunities.

Mr MP Bill Rammell was Minister for Higher Education in the Government of PM Tony Blair.

As you can see the letter doesn't say a word about making people paperless within EU borders.

It doesn't say anything about the Ambassador or any Italian Consul, as I would have liked a clear plain explanation from them for what they were doing, the honorable and reliable Italians of the Public Administration.

On the other hand it mention that I was claiming my Rights as an EU citizen, my right to travel and fulfill the opportunity I organized in autonomy, and as such suggested to look for legal advice in Italy. But I wasn't free to travel to Italy to do this, and probably was more important to cover-up the Consulate.

Dear Dott. Benatti

Thank you for your letter of 5 October, addressed to Bill Rammell MP, about admissions to the University of Leeds. I hope you understand that the Minister receives a large number of letters and emails and is unfortunately unable to reply to them all individually. Therefore, I have been asked to reply.

Firstly may I say I am sorry to read of the difficulties you have experienced since first trying to enrol at the University of Leeds as a PhD student. However, I should explain that UK universities are autonomous bodies responsible for their own admissions policies and procedures. This autonomy is enshrined in law and the Government does not have any power to direct universities in admissions procedures. The criteria adopted by universities when considering PhD applications are a matter for the individual institutions concerned. I am afraid it would therefore be inappropriate for Mr Rammell to meet with you to discuss your situation when he visits the University of Leeds on 29 November.

In addition, I am sorry to tell you that the failure of your previous place of study in Italy to verify your qualifications in a timely way, and in doing so enable you to enrol at the University of Leeds, is a matter which this Department can not advise you on. You may wish to consider taking legal advice in Italy on your position regarding this and the difficulties you experienced with the Italian Consulate.

If you would like to discuss your current situation with an impartial adviser the Council for International Education, UKCOSA, offers information about other sources of support which might be available to you as an international student. UKCOSA's advice line number is 0207 107 9922 and is open Mondays to Fridays between 1pm and 4pm. Alternatively you may wish to visit their website at www.ukcosa.org.uk.

Finally I note that the University of Leeds recently invited you to register your interest again as a prospective PhD student. I hope you are able to resume your studies either at the University of Leeds or another institution in the near future.

I realise this reply may not be as helpful as you would have wished. Nevertheless I hope I have clarified the Department's position.

Yours sincerely

Jan Purdy

On behalf of the Head of the Public Communications Unit

On the following pages are two letters from the same solicitor (image 17).

The RMO (Resident Medical Officer) indicated it wouldn't be in the Public Interest for the Police to pursue this matter.

Flannigan, the RMO, made up false accusations of all kinds, and despite the Police not finding anything to be investigated, she (RMO) had the insolence to pretend to be honest, that I didn't want to be discharged as she said to the solicitor, and later more false accusations when I was handed over to the Forensic Psychiatrist Dissanayaka. As if she ever had any reason to section me, before or after the Police dismissed her accusations as unsubstantiated.

I asked a solicitor to legally acknowledged and witness my situation, that my documents had vanished and the false accusations made against me.

Dear Lucas

I write further to my recent discussions with you on the 12th January 2007. I raised this matter with the Mental Health Review Tribunal and it would seem that they have mislaid your application. They have now formally acknowledged that you have applied to the Mental Health Review Tribunal and have promised me that they will endeavour to list the Mental Health Review Tribunal as a matter of urgency.

In the meantime I also confirm that I am going to press the Mental Health Act Administrator to arrange a Managers Meeting.

But out of mislaid applications, misleading reports, the lack of progress he mentions, and the false accusations dismissed every time by the Police, the manipulation and plagiarism of the RMO, the solicitor was happy to be paid anyway.

As matter of fact, as you can see, this kind of solicitor doesn't even need to spell my name correctly to be paid.

Flannigan, after stalking me and making false accusations to the Police, repeatedly, also made false statements to the solicitor pretending I was happy to be there, and later to the Forensic Psychiatrist Dr Dissanayaka, pretending I was the problem, the terrorist.

25 January 2007

Dear Lucas

I write to confirm my advice to you on the 20th January 2007.

I write to confirm that the police are not going to interview you in connection with an allegation of threats to kill due to the fact that the RMO indicated that it would not be in the public interest for the police to pursue this matter.

If the police however take the view that they should interview please do not hesitate to contact me and I will make sure that I am present at all police interviews.

Please note that I have applied for a Hospital Managers Meeting and a Mental Health Review Tribunal, I am continuing to press for an early date and I am somewhat concerned about the total lack of progress in terms of listing a hearing in your case.

You did also raise the with me the issue that you are likely to be discharged within the next 7 days by your RMO and you did not want this to take place.

I confirm my advice: -

1. If the RMO decides that you should be discharged from hospital then you will have little choice in the matter – you can not remain on a section through your own choice
2. Please also note that I do not believe that if you were taken off section it would affect any civil action you may or may not wish to take against the hospital in due course.

Please however keep me fully informed if you are taken off section in due course.

Yours Faithfully

Again the Police couldn't find anything to prosecute, despite the evidence of more false accusations, slander, defamation, and the stalking of a paperless person prevented from appropriate legal representation.

But the solicitor was more compromising and tolerant, as if he was to be paid anyway and I was to be paperless anyway.

RE: Your Property (Computer)

Further to your message on the 11th March where you asked us to help you recover the computers which were seized by the police in October 2008, we can inform you that we have on the 15th 16th and 29th March, and also on the 1st, 27th and 28th April tried in vain to effect the release of your computers.

Unfortunately despite our enquiries and having an e-mail sent to the officer in this case's supervisor we have yet to receive a satisfactory response from the police.

To this end we now recommend you contact Mr Simon Purchase at Ison Harrison solicitors, on Leeds 0113 2845000 as we understand Mr Purchase is well versed in the field of making claims against the police.

For your information the officer involved in this matter is DC 4167 Hare, you were originally arrested on the 3rd December 2008, although you were not interviewed regarding these offences until the 8th December 2008 and your custody reference number was C00184583.

Whilst writing we would also confirm that we have tried to contact you on your home telephone number as supplied but unfortunately have not received an answer to this line.

We wish you well in your endeavours to retrieve your property.

Yours sincerely

On the following page is a letter from Dr Dissanayaka (image 20).

I wonder why the false accusations of Flannigan have never been investigated. She accused me of being a terrorist and a murderer in order to get me arrested by the Police, and when the Police dismissed the case, she and her colleagues had not been investigated for false accusations.

So they went further with their insolence and I was sectioned by Flannigan on the ground of the false accusation she made up and the Police could not accept, not even with the backup of all her best professional friends.

Every time Flannigan organized new accusations I had a new solicitor, not because I chose it but because without a passport I couldn't hire one; and every time a different solicitor told me that the false accusations were to be dismissed as unsubstantiated, as if the repeating of false accusations was not evidence of substantiated stalking, harassing, slander, defamation, and false information provided to mislead the Police.

I have been repeatedly accused of the most pervert and vicious scums Ms Flannigan could organize, anonymously, but the Police could never find anything to investigate, nothing more than the false accusations of Flannigan, the Police always dismissed as unsubstantiated.

What about the insolence of Flannigan, pretending all of this never happened. As if I didn't voice the rights for my passport replacement long before she arrived, and she was not to cover-up the good relations of the Italian Embassy at my expenses, during the government of Tony Blair, just before his conversion to the Catholic Church.

Dear Dr Lee

Re: Luca Benatti – DOB [Redacted] Address [Redacted]
NHS NO: [Redacted]

Thank you for your letter of the 14th May 2010.

I am afraid that I am not in a position to see Luca again without a referral from secondary psychiatric services as my service, the Assertive Outreach Team is a tertiary service which takes on patients who require particular specialist input.

I have enclosed some correspondence from both me and Luca's previous care coordinator which briefly detail his time with us.

Given his likelihood of not seeing psychiatric services other than ours we did discharge him directly back to primary care but if his needs have changed and he is asking for help with symptoms including anxiety then if specialist input is required he should be referred to your local CMHT in the usual way. I do know that he had some difficulties with his previous CMHT and I am not sure as to whether he would go to the same service today following the recent resectorisation.

Either way he did not fit the criteria for our service for most of his time with us as he was very easily engaged in the community and did not require any specific interventions around his mental health needs, risk management being maintained on a low frequency of visits. If there is an issue with him returning to the same community team then this is a matter for the consultants in your area to resolve amongst themselves in order that alternative arrangements can be made.

I am very sympathetic to Luca's situation and indeed developed a good working relationship with him but our interactions had little to do with trying to modify his beliefs, most of which he gave quite compelling arguments for casting doubt on whether they were all delusional as previously stated. Towards the latter end of my contact with him his main need was for me to be supporting him in trying to sort out this terrible mess in which he is as you say "paperless".

On the following page is the second page of the letter from Dr Dissanayaka (image 21).

You can see also the Forensic Psychiatrist Dr Dissanayaka mentions legal claims I should have reported to Italy. As if all of this didn't happen in England, as if they had no obligation to report crimes to the EU Police from the start. As if anything of this could have possibly ever been in my best interest, at any time, to be paperless from EU Country and within EU Borders, and I didn't report appropriately from the start.

It was clear since the time of Dr Buller that it was a legal matter, and that I was not the problem but the victim, despite the superior understanding of Flannigan, far above the average.

Dear Dissanayaka, could you tell why the Catholic Syllabus never mention the Racial Laws? Could you tell how the Catholic Heresies have become Catholic Legacy, or is the subject not in your background?

To hear this from his own mouth visit the Audio recording of Dissanayaka [\[A10\]](#)

Note to this document:

Please, visit the video [\[A10\]](#) with the audio tape recording and hear the true voice of DR N. Dissanayaka "It is an intolerable way to have to live"

<https://youtu.be/dpFJ2kHr9kg>

"It is an intolerable way to have to live" [\[A10\]](#)

Sadly I do not have any authority in this area and as much as we would have liked to have helped him the most appropriate manner for this to be handled is via a good solicitor perhaps with the use of an advocate as Luca does tend to speak quite passionately which sometimes gets in the way of him getting his message across clearly.

I do wish him well and I am happy for the contents of this letter to be shared with him.

Yours sincerely

Gentile Alessandro Pansa, Capo della Polizia e della pubblica sicurezza. Anzitutto le voglio dare il benvenuto su Internet. Inoltre le voglio confermare che sottoscrivo e concordo al 100% con Anonymous, con la sola eccezione per l'anonimato.

Quindi le dico subito il mio nome, mi chiamo Luca Benatti, e ci tengo a dirle apertamente, in pubblico che lei e' un pezzo di merda, un imbecille, ma soprattutto falso e codardo, un verme privo di qualsiasi percezione morale.

Gentile Alessandro Pansa, Capo della Polizia e della sicurezza publica.

Recently I contacted a solicitor, and he replied:

«Whilst, we do appreciate your situation and the injustices you have faced, we have to comply with these obligations. Unfortunately, all solicitors in the UK are bound by the same obligations and accordingly, you might struggle to find someone to act for you without identification documents unless they know you personally.»

Apparently, to make people paperless, is tolerated and promoted with systematic indifference.

Dear Luca

I hope you are well.

As discussed, I have spoken to the partner about what we discussed and what we would need to do in order to act for you in this matter. We would be delighted to act for you but in order to comply with the mandatory anti money laundering obligations we have to verify the identity of all our new clients and in order to do so we would need to see a copy of your passport and driving licence. I understand that, due to your circumstances, you may struggle to provide us with these documents.

Whilst, we do appreciate your situation and the injustices you have faced, we have to comply with these obligations. Unfortunately, all solicitors in the UK are bound by the same obligations and accordingly, you might struggle to find someone to act for you without identification documents unless they know you personally.

If you are able to provide us with the identity documentation that is required we would be able to act for you. As I mentioned on the phone, it is difficult to estimate what the costs of reviewing 10 pages of the book would be as it depends on the content. However, as general guide we would estimate that to review 10 pages of a book it would take 2 hours. My hourly rate is £195 plus VAT so it is likely to be around £400 plus VAT which we would need in advance of carrying out work.

If you can provide us with the relevant identification documentation we would be happy to act for you but if you are unable to unfortunately, due to the money laundering obligations, we can not act for you.

Kind regards
Tim

Subject: Your e-mail of 21 March 2018

Dear Mr Benatti,

I write in relation to your e-mail of 21 March 2018 addressed to President Juncker, which concerns a number of issues you faced following the theft of your passport and which was registered under reference number Ares(2018)2060765(please quote this reference in any further correspondence). I have been asked to reply to your correspondence on the President's behalf. Please accept our apologies for the delay in replying to your complaint.

It appears from the documents that you have sent us that the Italian authorities were unable to issue you a new passport as you had been removed from the Italian residency register following your absence during the 2001 Italian census. The Italian consular authorities asked you to register in the Registry of Italians Residing Abroad (Anagrafe degli Italiani Residenti all'Estero - AIRE)¹, which is a registry for Italian citizens who reside outside Italy for a period of at least 12 months. It is unclear, from the documents you have sent, whether you have ever registered in AIRE.

We do not know the current status of your passport application. We would suggest contacting the Italian consulate responsible for you² to inquire about the status of your application as well as about any documents or formalities that prevent that a passport is issued to you. These formalities might include having to register in AIRE.

I hope you find this information useful.

Dear Mr Benatti,

I refer to your e-mail of 19 November 2019, address to President Juncker, concerning the problems you have faced following the theft of your passport in the United Kingdom.

Your letter was registered under the reference number Ares(2019)7175584 (please quote this reference in any further correspondence).

As my Unit is responsible for Union citizenship, I was asked to reply to you.

As previously stated in my letter of 8 June 2018 (reference number Ares(2018)302287), we do not have any knowledge of the status of your passport application, nor do we know what could possibly have gone wrong in the application process.

As Italy is competent to decide on the procedure for the issuing of an Italian passport, including the requirement for Italians living outside of Italy to register, in certain circumstances, in the Registry of Italians Residing Abroad (Anagrafe degli Italiani Residenti all'Estero -AIRE), we advise you to address any related questions to the Italian authorities. Only they can give you information on the status of your application and provide you with advice on the steps to take to eventually be issued with a new Italian passport.

Regarding your mention of a lawsuit, we are not aware of any EU-level (legal) proceedings on the matters covered by your e-mail.

For your information, OLAF, the European Anti-Fraud Office, investigates fraud against the EU budget, corruption and serious misconduct within the European institutions. It does not conduct any investigations related to the issuing of passports by the Member States to its own nationals.

I hope that you will find this information useful.

Dear Prime Minister,

I am writing to you because I believe "the law of the land" is an essential value for civil society, but it is also one of the best Catholic Heresies persecuted in History.

I am originally from Italy, and I arrived in England because I had a PhD offer, but the next day I was paperless like an illegal immigrant. Both passport and university degree have vanished in the Italian Offices, and there was no way to have an answer from the Consul, for years. That because it was God will, sure not the law of the land.

As you can see I have sent COPY of this LEGAL CLAIM to few EU Member State Embassies, as it is my believe the EU needs to be concerned of this situation.

In fact the EU knows from the start, as they sent lawsuit to Italy before false accusations and torture I had to suffer as part of the cover up here in England.

Dear Prime Minister, I am not a communist or an anarchist. I am a democrat demanding his rights, but as I said the law of the land is one of the best heresies. It is for this reason I am sending my invitation to you, to send this matter concerning "the law of the land" to the EU.

The EU Settlement Scheme deadline has now passed – you must take urgent action to secure your rights

Dear LUCA BENATTI

Now that the UK has left the European Union (EU), anyone who is a EU, European Economic Area (EEA) or Swiss national and their family members need a valid UK immigration status to continue living in the UK (for example, valid leave to enter or remain or indefinite leave to enter or remain, including leave granted under the EU Settlement Scheme (EUSS)).

Our records indicate you are an EU, EEA, or Swiss citizen living in the UK and you:

- may not have valid UK immigration status; and
- have not applied to the EUSS.

What this means for you

If you applied to the EUSS before the 30 June deadline, including using a paper application form, and are awaiting a decision, you do not need to take any further action at this point.

If you have not applied to the EUSS and do not have another valid immigration status, you need to make a late application to the scheme within 28 days of the date of this letter. If you do not make a late application, you will not be able to work or access public services and any benefits you receive will stop. For more information and to apply to the scheme visit: www.gov.uk/settled-status-eu-citizens-families.

If you are a British or Irish citizen, or believe you already have a valid UK immigration status and have got this letter in error, please contact 0300 1050 888 (lines will be open 09:30-4:30pm Monday – Friday) within 28 days of the date of this letter so we can update our records.

Our Ref: JM/R-390

Dear Mr Benatti

Further to our recent telephone meeting I am writing to confirm the instructions that you gave me. I am a solicitor and EU Settlement Advice Worker and will be advising on your case. This area of work is managed by Harry Pratt, who is my line manager. Overall professional supervision of the Practice is by Joe Power, our Supervising Solicitor.

Should you wish to speak with me regarding your case you can telephone me directly on 07908 078831. I will normally be available from 10am to 4pm, Monday to Friday. I am often dealing with other clients or in meetings so if I do not answer please leave a voicemail and I will get back to you.

Our services are free

Your Instructions

During our telephone meeting on 1 September 2021 we discussed your instructions, requirements and objectives, which I have summarised below.

You explained that you are an Italian national and you have been living in the UK for approximately 20 years.

Your Italian passport was either lost or stolen around 2001-2002 and you reported this at the time. You have since been unable to obtain a new passport. You were told by the Italian authorities that they could not issue a new passport for you while you were in Northern Island. You then moved to Leeds and were advised to obtain one from the Italian consulate in Manchester. You have so far not been able to obtain a new passport.

EUSS Solicitor, page 1 of 4, Images 32

You do not have an alternative ID document. You believe your brother may have your original birth certificate in Italy, but you do not believe you will be able to obtain a new passport.

Your main objective is to understand the requirements for an EU Settlement Scheme application and whether you are eligible to apply.

Advice and options available

I advised you that the main requirement for any EU Settlement application is proof of ID. Usually the Home Office expects you to provide a valid passport, but you are also permitted to submit an expired passport, a national ID card, or some other form of ID such as a birth certificate.

I advised that you currently are not eligible to apply because you do not have any ID document.

However, you do have a large quantity of evidence about the difficulties you have faced in attempting to obtain a new Italian passport. I am not confident that you would be successful in obtaining EU Settled Status as there is no evidence in your documents you have attempted to renew your passport at the Manchester consulate. However, if you feel you can provide the evidence that you have tried to renew your passport at the consulate, as well as from the authorities in Italy, then you could present all of this evidence to the Home Office using a paper application form.

I have provided a blank paper application form along with this letter for you to complete if you wish. If you are able to find some form of ID, such as a renewed passport or your original birth certificate then I will be able to assist you with this application. At the moment, with no ID available, I am afraid I am not able to help you submit the application.

Further, you do not need to worry about your status printed in an expired passport, but you should make sure you have both your old passport and your valid passport when you travel.

This letter and the advice I provided over the phone is the extent of the work we can do on your case. Do contact me if you need any help with an application in the future, for example if you are able to obtain new ID document. Do also contact me if you have any follow up questions.

I hope that you are satisfied with the service we provide. If you wish to make a comment on this at any time, I hope very much you will feel able to do so, either to me or to another person at the Kirklees Citizens Advice and Law Centre (KCALC).

Complaints procedure

If you are unhappy with any part of the service we provide then we have an internal complaints procedure where you can discuss your concerns with our Complaints Officer, Nick Whittingham and if you are still unhappy, you may raise the matter with: The Legal Ombudsman, PO Box 6806, Wolverhampton WV1 9WJ.

Terminating your case

In some circumstances you may consider that the Kirklees Citizens Advice and Law Centre ought to stop acting for you, for example, if clear or proper instructions on how KCALC is to proceed with your case cannot be given or if you lose confidence in the KCALC's ability to carry out your instructions. You may terminate your instructions to the KCALC in writing at any time.

On the other hand the KCALC may only decide to stop acting for you if it has good reason. For example, if your case no longer justifies the merits test could be a good reason. If the KCALC decides to terminate your case it must write to you and give you reasonable notice so that you can find other legal advice.

We are registered with the Information Commissioner's Office under Z9821213 and will process your personal data in accordance with the General Data Protection Regulation and Data Protection Act 2018. We are therefore required and have obtained your consent to hold your personal information in paper form and electronically on our case management system.

You are entitled to examine your files at any time, and request a copy of your personal information. Your personal information will be stored securely and will not be shared with any third party.

In addition you have given consent for your case records including personal information being audited by external authorities for quality and regulator purposes.

The KCALC will not tolerate clients who use racist, sexist, homophobic, abusive or oppressive language. Clients who use such language will be warned of their conduct, in writing if necessary, and warned that future incidents will lead to the KCALC refusing to advise them or take on their case or continue with their case.

Closing your case

I will now close your file as there is no further work to be done on this matter. I have checked the file and given you back your original documents there are no original documents on your file.

For the attention of

EUSS Paper Forms
EU Settlement Scheme
PO Box 2076
Liverpool
L69 3PG

Dear Office,

I am writing to your office after contacting the solicitor for the settlement scheme.

As you can see last week I received the letter from the doctor, for the solicitor of the EU Settlement scheme, but the solicitor closed the case in September.

As you can see the solicitor had no problem to refuse assistance, as consequence of the fact that I have no passport. Nevertheless I believe he was paid anyway for the legal advice, and I have lost many more rights he didn't mention because of his professionalism.

As you can see from the letter of barrister Paul Diamond (pag 225), making people paperless (without personal ID) means reducing people into SLAVERY. This is also clear from the letter of the solicitor Tim Barber (pag 219), informing that without a passport I have no rights to hire an independent lawyer. As you can see the solicitors I was assigned "by the office" never had any problem to advise and impose on me to conform to the will of the Consul and be the impostor, the counterfeiter, despite I am not the impostor.

As matter of facts I arrived in England because I had a PhD offer, but the professors in the photograph of my graduation ceremony at the Verona University did not confirm my true academic career and made me do the impression of the impostor. In the same period of time I had my passport stolen, and never had any passport replacement, not even temporary to travel back to resolve the problems they were causing in the offices.

Now you ask me again for a passport, again, after I have been humiliated and forced to be paperless, against my rights and my complaints. I have been treated like an impostor despite I am not, and I have been coerced with violence to be the scapegoat to cover up the Italian mafia.

In evidence some people like Kyenge and Regeni, they can have the recommendations of the bishop for diplomas and degrees they never had, and be honest with it also after confessing the scam, while some other cannot have confirmation of their true academic career from Italian state universities and will be forced with coercion to be paperless, like impostors.

As you can see from the letter of MP Bill Rammell (pag 207) the govern was informed at the time of the happening, but decided that EU Citizens paperless within EU border was not a problem, or a threat for the victims. That happened after the EU OLAF sent my lawsuit to Italy, and the prosecutor had the insolence to pretend it was never happened.

I hope you understand this situation is humiliating, stressful and oppressive, as there is nothing I could do against this regime of corruption and mafia I have reported from the start. Sincerely I am not willing to be the impostor, the scapegoat to cover up the mafia that did this to me, and I report this situation of SLAVERY imposed on me, with violence and coercion, with the consequences you can see.

Concerning this situation I wrote a book, and the appendix of documents in attachment was carved from it. These are scans of real documents, step by step all the legal assistance I had to become paperless within EU borders, and then the impostor, the potential terrorist, and whatever recommendations they liked to provide as institutions, but not my passport or my degree. Because of the Appendix I offered copy of the book to the DWP Staff during their home visit, but they said was not necessary, despite it is documenting that becoming paperless was against my rights, against my will, and against my best interest.

With best regards
Luca Benatti

Appendix: In conclusion

By the law I have no rights to hire a lawyer because I am paperless, like an illegal immigrant, and only have the rights to be tortured by the same people who made me paperless. In evidence to make people paperless is a crime, it is against the law, and for sure I had the rights to my personal documents since long before they arrived with their fabrications, insults, blackmails, and nothing may change this fact. There is no chance to make people paperless without breaking the law, and there are no people paperless to talk about, but only people made paperless, in the offices, illegally, and kept paperless with the criminal intent to prevent them from their rights and from Justice.

Depriving people of personal ID documents is criminal because reduces people to slavery, and this is exactly what they did to me. So, since I am sure only a bunch of criminals may find all of this as tolerable, or legal, I decided to write this publication, to inform you concerning education, rights and freedoms that have been lost.

Luca,

Thanks for the email. What you say about Italy is very disturbing and alarming. However, the question of corruption in Italy is a political issue, not one that a Court could resolve.

The refusal to grant a citizen a Passport would, in my opinion, be unlawful. A Passport is a right of citizenship and the absence of one, would impede the right of freedom to travel both internationally and freedom within the EU. A claim should be brought against the Italian foreign ministry in Rome. This is because there would be jurisdiction issues for a Court in England.

You need to find a public interest firm in Italy that assists people like you. I am sure that are some/ many.

I trust you are well. But as I said, I think these are political issues.

Paul

Dear Barrister Paul Diamond,

Wikipedia doesn't offer appropriate rendering of the Decree against Communism, so here I have one.

By now you should know the problem was not with Communism but the Fundamental Values of Democracy, the Freedom of Choice and the Secular Value of Justice historically persecuted as Heresies for Heretics, Anarchists, and more recently Apostates of the Faith.

The leaflets were on display and distributed at the entrance of the Churches; just after the Nuremberg Trials it resumes the Cultural Principles of the Concordat at the origin of the Racial Laws of Mussolini, persecuting the democrats as Apostates of the Faith.

Overtime

From the Second Edition: Foreword

Dear President of the European Commission Jean-Claude Juncker, since the first edition was published BREXIT has happened, and this letter is just a reminder for people's rights.

As you can see from the letter of the solicitor Tim Barber, in appendix, I cannot hire a lawyer because I have no Passport. In fact I had my passport stolen in 2002, 15 years ago, and despite I paid immediately for the replacement in the hands of the Italian Consul, I never had the new ID.

In 2005, the EU OLAF office sent my lawsuit to the Court in Milan but with no success, in fact the Prosecutor in Italy had the insolence to pretend that "It didn't happen" and flushed the case down the drain.

Dear Mr Juncker, at the time of the happenings I made some audio tape recordings and you can hear that from their voices, admitting they never had any evidence but only false accusations, but what was the point of this?

Important is that Ms Federica Mogherini, vice president of the European Commission, and Katya Adler BBC Presenter ("After Brexit: The Battle for Europe")[\[A5\]](#) have the opportunity to talk about well known Human Rights violations perpetrated in Europe, and to squeeze at least one more coffee from the lives of the victims.

So, in conclusion, the solicitor said that I have no rights for legal representation because I have no passport, and the only positive action I could do was to write a book about this factual story, and publish original documents, photographs, and the audio tape recordings.

Just a reminder of people's rights that they have actually lost with the advent of the European Union as we know it. Thank you for your time and attention.

Best Regards

L.B.

From the Second Edition: Farewell

Few days ago the President of the European Commission Jean-Claude Juncker was disappointed with the Italian Prime Minister Matteo Renzi [A30]

Dear Jean-Claude Juncker, I am also disappointed with Mr Renzi. Next time you see him, could you please ask him about my passport, or my degree, or about the prosecutors sweeping the legal suits under the carpet?

But overall, concerning Mr Renzi, I would like to know from the European Union if the Italian High Moral Values above the Law are to be considered as mafia to be prosecuted, or culture and tradition to be honoured and preserved as symbol of the Ancient Values under which Europe was recently Re-United.

Dear Jean-Claude Juncker, it is recently the news that the Italian Government published the content of the 'Armoire of Shame' [W11][A27], a double door closet filled with 695 folders of records of massacres perpetrated in Italy by Fascists and Nazis during and after 1943, when the war was almost over. The closet was probably waiting for the attention of the Court for war crimes but never got there, and its disappearance was to set the standard for the democracy to come with the Republic.

I wonder, from the rights of the victims, what probability do we really have for Justice, since the High Moral Values inspiring the Fascist holocaust, have become raison d'etre of the European Union?

Dear Jean-Claude Juncker, in Europe today people vanish the same as it was at the time of Mussolini, exactly for the same reasons, and there is no chance for Justice by the Law, because the Legal Suit are swept under the carpets. Eventually be aware the System of Corruption and these High Moral Values above the law, which transform Criminals into Saints, are exactly the same reasons at the origin of the divisions of Europe since the end of the Dark Ages.

with best regards

L. B.

Foreword to the third edition

Dear President of the European Commission, Ms Ursula von der Leyen, the Nuremberg Trials have never prosecuted any Fascist for the persecutions and intellectual cleansing perpetrated in Italy during the Fascist Regime, why?

The Nuremberg Trials absolved the Fascist Regime as Culture and Tradition; is this the very same reason the Racial Laws have been enacted again in 1949, by Decree of the Holy Sight? On the other hand, it was not Mussolini who invented the Roman Supremacy, was it?

Concerning Democracy, the documentation in the School Syllabus, is for believers. As a matter of fact the Freedom of Choice has never been a Catholic Value but a Catholic Heresy, persecuted on the stake throughout history, and the same is for the Secular Value of Justice.

Dear President of the European Commission, Ms Ursula von der Leyen, the foundations of Democracy, the Democratic Values, are in the index of the Catholic Inquisition, and if people cannot really claim the rights they are supposed to have it is only because still today the Racial Laws are celebrated as Culture and Tradition.

I wouldn't sound impolite or uneducated, but would you call yourself Racist, the same as Mussolini was, exactly for the same reasons? Nevertheless this is exactly what the European Union is doing, and you represent it.

Please, would you ask Mr Michel Barnier about my passport?

Best Regards

Cambridge's deception and Giulio Regeni

For the Attention of

Rt Hon David John Sainsbury, Baron Sainsbury of Turville, Chancellor
Cambridge University

Prof Jude Browne Head of Department
Department of Politics and International Studies

Prof Ms Maha Abdelrahman
PhD Tutor of Giulio Regeni

Prof Anne Alexander
Academic Referee of Giulio Regeni

Dear Professor Maha, Anne and Jude, of the Department of Politics of Cambridge University [A36].

From the start Giulio Regeni in Italy never graduated any further diploma or university degree, but completed only the compulsory education at the age of 13 like everyone. Then, after 2 years in the college-oratory of the bishop in new Mexico he registered Oxford with the recommendations of the bishop for diplomas and degrees he never had, and then Cambridge, consulting the Think Tank and Oxford Analytica with the big data professor Anne.

A similar story is from Cecile Kyenge, confessing during a television interview that she knew she didn't have the rights for the documents she was asking for, the passport and the funding to register the University, but thanks to the network of friends of the bishop in the public offices she had all the documents she needed, and later she was also elected member of parliament and appointed minister for integration and equal opportunities.

But my point here is to address the system of corruption, and not the individuals; Cecile Kyenge and Giulio Regeni are just two EXAMPLES of the several thousands students they represent, superior students above the average from the colleges-oratory of the bishops, with the recommendations for diplomas and degrees they never had. Honest and trustable people with the rights to feel honest also after the confession of their frauds and scams is public knowledge in the news.

I am doing this because on the other hand, the other students are blackmailed for the confirmation of their true academic career from state universities and become impostors and paperless within EU borders, and are coerced with violence to be the scapegoat, and are prevented from their rights in order to cover up that "alternative system of values", the system of value of the recommendation, bribery and blackmail. The alternative system of values you professor Maha you promote in the classrooms as democracy for the high standards of your selected students above the average.

The Cambridge Prize

Dear Maha, Anne and Jude, you are the PhD professors of Giulio Regeni in Politics. Maybe I am not obedient like Giulio Regeni, but I have better reasons, and my documented and objective question for you is this.

On the 3rd of January 1925 Mussolini said that "the democratic values have to be found in the Catholic tradition", then he dismissed the parliament, imposed the Religion of State and persecuted the opposition as "apostates of the faith" and "enemies of the state".

I wonder if someone was to ask you to state one democratic value that has ever been a Catholic value in history, would you be able to answer, or you are better to admit you mislead, brainwash and discriminate the students, in favour of an alternative system of value?

Surely, if your superior students, such a Regeni, really want to graduate with Cambridge honours then they should be able to state one democratic value that has ever been a Catholic value in history.

I ask because the democratic values are the result of the emancipation from the absolute power of the church, and the democratic values, especially the freedom of choice and the secular value of justice, have been persecuted throughout history as Catholic heresies undermining the absolute power of the church, in the quest for absolute obedience.

There is absolutely no way any democratic value has ever been a Catholic value, until Mussolini said so, closed the parliament and persecuted "the oppositions" as apostates of the faith and enemies of the state, anticipating the words his spiritual leader repeated after WWII, in the excommunication of the democratic values and all those making common cause with it.

Complaint

Dear Chancellor Rt Hon David John Sainsbury, Baron Sainsbury of Turville, could you state one democratic value that has ever been a Catholic value in History?

I wonder if someone pretending the democratic values are Catholic legacy, may be able to distinguish good and evil at all.

As matter of facts, only a fascist or an idiot would pretend the democratic values are Catholic legacy, and the reconstitution of the fascist party is a crime. Could you state one democratic value that has ever been a Catholic value in History, or this is just a plain reconstitution of the fascist party, Mr Chancellor?

So I like to ask the PhD professors of Giulio Regeni, if they could state one democratic value that has ever been a Catholic value in history, or they could only quote the speech of Mussolini for this explanation, pretending the democratic value have be found within the Catholic tradition, with the recommendations of the bishop.

I am impressed the PhD tutor of Giulio Regeni Maha Abdelrahman Department of Politics and International Studies of Cambridge University cannot explain in what way the democratic value have become Catholic legacy, but if you spend a moment you understand without the tutor from Cambridge that the democratic values are the result of the emancipation from the absolute power of the church, and only a fascist or an idiot would pretend the democratic values have ever been Catholic values.

Also the reformation of the Churches was about rights and freedoms more than religion, but considering the education as £12.000 per year and more, it is a good business and even better propaganda at geopolitical scale. In fact after the students have paid all that money they feel to be intelligent and superiorly educated.

I wonder if the academic referee of Giulio Regeni, Anne Alexander, or the Head of Department Professor Jude Browne could rank themselves and Giulio Regeni above the average against every standard, or only against the standard they represent, the standard of the recommendation of the bishop.

I also wonder about the right wing's manipulations, from the schoolbooks to the big data/statistics...

I wonder about Regeni as consultant for the Think Tank and Oxford Analytica, with the recommendations of the bishop for diplomas and degree he never had, with the big data professor as assistant, and Cambridge Analytica 'ancilla fidei'.

I wonder about the honesty of such good professors and politicians concerning people's rights, and the system of recommendation they represent.

Furthermore, concerning professor Anne feeling compelled to ride and campaign against Al-Sisi as the responsible for civil rights violations [A37], I like to inform concerning civil rights violations and abuses against EU Citizens that actually happen in England, reducing the victims into slavery with violence and coercion.

Going personal

This is a true story, and you can find the documents in the appendix of my book.

As you can see I am from Italy and I arrived in England because I organised a PhD opportunity in autonomy. I had a PhD offer but the professors in the photograph of my graduation ceremony at the Verona University did not confirm my academic career to Leeds University (also in my book's appendix), consequentially making me do the impression of an impostor and counterfeiter. I highlight that the Italian Consulate never provided any assistance, nothing more than imposing on me to be a paperless impostor. In fact the Italian Consulate never provided any passport replacement after it's theft which prevented me from the rights to hire a lawyer.

As you can see in appendix, the police headquarters in Milan issued my passport, sometime later confirmed my address and my presence in person with the signature of police inspector. To the same address I also received a letter from the president of the Italian republic concerning the subject in discussion. So I had my PhD offer but I had become paperless, an impostor and a counterfeiter in the UK.

The EU sent my lawsuit to Italy convening my rights for travelling and fulfil the opportunities I organised in autonomy but the prosecutor in Italy (2005) stated that "it never happened".

This letter is from your prime minister Tony Blair (2006) before his conversion to Catholic, but after the EU sent my lawsuit to Italy. I like to address the false accusations, coercion and violence I had with the reply, the retaliation and the political cover up.

This is from the barrister Paul Diamond, informing that a lawsuit should be brought against the Italian foreign office, for the assistance provided by the consul in making me paperless and looking like I am the impostor, for preventing me from fulfilling the PhD offer I had, for preventing me from the rights to hire a lawyer and from travelling. It is also concerning civil rights and reducing people into slavery, with violence and coercion in order to cover up complaint and evidences, and to make a scapegoat out of the victims.

In addition to this perjury of public officers, they also go on to accuse victims of having reasons to become terrorists and plot mass murders, and gives them excuses to warrant their arrest in the name of national security and public order.

On the other hand, the tradition of bribery and blackmail, with the holy cross in the Italian courtrooms transforming the forgery and the perjury of public officers into acts of devotion and career opportunities. This is the Catholic culture and tradition, and the supposed divine rights they claim to perpetrate whatever crime and abuses in the name of their religion.

MP Sajid Javid and the holocaust

Dear MP Rt Hon Sajid Javid, my name is Luca, I am from Italy, and the best way to explain it to you is with quote from my book reading that «Only a fascist or an idiot would pretend the democratic values are Catholic legacy, without being able to tell any of these democratic values of Catholic origin».

This is why Mussolini made it religion of state, with secret Police, inquisition, and intellectual cleansing to persecute the oppositions as apostates of the faith, as it was a true religious war against heretics.

So, I am here to address your approximate and patchy education oratory-like, with a few questions for you and the best professors you can find at Oxford and Cambridge. If they feel they can help you ...

Dear Mr Rt Hon Javid, the 3 January 1925 Mussolini said that "the democratic values have to be found in the Catholic tradition", then he dismissed the parliament and persecuted the opposition as "apostates of the faith" and "enemy of the state".

What do you know about the intellectual cleansing of Mussolini, what do you know about the fascist persecution of the democrats as apostates of the faith and enemy of the state? Do you believe it didn't happen because it is not in your Catholic schoolbooks?

Mussolini closed the parliament in 1925, 14 years before he enacted the racial laws in December 1938. Why don't you ask the senator for life Lilians Segre [W74], she was there she can tell you the holocaust for the democrats started 14 years before, and still today has not ended yet.

In fact after WWII the holocaust for the senator for life Lilians Segre was ended, but for the democrats, the excommunication of the democratic values was to renew the principles inspiring the fascist regime, as stated in the concordat, and still today the democratic values have to be found in the fascist regime of Mussolini.

How do you believe some people may have recommendations for diplomas and degrees they never had, while others cannot have confirmation of their true academic career from state university, become paperless, and coerced to be the impostor to cover up the administrative horrors of your holy democracy...

Concerning the excommunication of the democratic value, the reason is that the clergy never liked to be treated as commoners; they don't like to be subject to the common laws, and as consequence they had a campaign against communism, with the excommunication of the communists and those making common cause with them, demanding the secular value of justice not to be postponed into the afterlife. The matter in discussion were not the values of the communist party but the values of the common laws, and the secular values of justice to limit their pretence of absolute power and tyranny.

In fact the clergy loves to be above the laws and revels in this immunity, selling passports and recommendations for diplomas and degrees to their devoted customers, like indulgences for every abuse and every idiot they can exploit, knowing that the holy cross in the courtrooms will transform the perjury of public officers into acts of devotion and career opportunities, reinterpreting their good intentions.

Dear Mr Rt Hon Sajid Javid, only an idiot or a fascist would pretend the democratic values are Catholic legacy. Can you find a professor good enough to tell how the Catholic heresies have become Catholic legacy?

Why don't you ask the Italian ambassador about the assistance they provided, after they vanished my degree and made me look like an impostor, after they made me paperless, preventing me from the rights to hire a lawyer?

Why don't you ask the prime minister Tony Blair about this?

This letter is from his office when he was in office, and was dealing with Dr David Kelly, do you remember Dr David Kelly?

Why don't you ask the police about my report?

Why don't you ask the Italian Newspaper "la Repubblica"? They have a competition for the best professor in Italy, ask them to tell you one democratic value that has ever been a Catholic value in history.

Ask them how the democratic values have become Catholic legacy...

Ask them what system of value is transforming the perjury of public officers into acts of devotion and career opportunities. There are more than 9.000.000 backlogged legal cases, but the most significant cases are not in that list, because they pretend they never happened.

Concerning the democratic values and the holocaust, you should apologize to Mr Corbyn for your incompetence, but I understand you are functional, instrumental to cover up the racist tradition of your colleagues [A38][A42][W73].

MP Nusrat Ghani and the definition of islamophobia

Dear MP Rt Hon Ms Nusrat Ghani, could you tell one democratic value that has ever been a Catholic value in history? Can you see the average where it is, from where you are? You studied Politics, ask Oxford and Cambridge to help you to find an answer.

Concerning the definition of Islamophobia, I see you are dedicated to alternative systems of values, and the democratic values are not of your concern, but eventually to prevaricate the rule of the law with some more alternative system of values based on high moral grounds.

From the moral point of view, you can pretend the democratic values are Catholic legacy, but recommend the necessity for a definition of Islamophobia.

Can you see how functional and instrumental and poorly educated you are.

Why don't you ask someone like you, someone spiritual, expert with multiple systems of values, honest in conscience and with faith in God like you ... Ask the bishop, how the democratic values have become Catholic legacy.

In the words of the ancient Romans, the pre-Christian, the people of faith and morality like the Christians, with their alternative systems of values, were just uncivilized barbarians. Sociopaths disrespecting the laws and other people rights.

How do you believe to be different, with your alternative system of value compared to the alternative system of value of someone else? And what about my true rights not to be the impostor, and the official system of values you don't care, bigot above the average with your multi system of values.

The democrats don't have the rights for a definition of democracy since the 3 January 1925, and you ask the definition of Islamophobia? Can you see you are instrumental to cover up the racist tradition of the most racist right wing? How do you pretend to have rights the native democrats cannot have, because of religious dogmas and mafia that are above the law? [\[A39\]](#)

MP Nadhim Zahawi

Dear MP Rt Hon Nadhim Zahawi, Education Secretary.

I feel confident you can provide an answer for my questions, will you?

MP Kwasi Kwarteng

Dear MP Rt Hon Kwasi Kwarteng Secretary of State for Business, Energy and Industrial Strategy.

I see you have been in all the places a student would dream of, from Eton to Harvard and Cambridge.

What a misery you cannot tell one democratic value that has ever been a Catholic value in history, despite of the level of tuition you have had.

Since you are a businessman, my question for you would be about Brexit.

I would like you to find one professor of yours from Harvard, to confirm that cutting 20% of the biggest spenders from the market could improve the economy.

The Opposition

Lets try with the opposition...

Dear MP Rt Hon Mr Keir Starmer, concerning your complaint to Boris Johnson for parroting fascists [A40], I have become paperless in your country Mr Starmer, and your public officers couldn't find anything better than imposing it on me, to prevent me from the rights to hire a lawyer and cover up the Italian Mafia.

So they made it, with recommendations, that I would be an impostor, a counterfeiter, and after the EU sent lawsuit to Italy and the prosecutor swept the case into the afterlife for justice, I have been tortured in your country Mr Starmer, to cover up your alternative system of values.

Since you claim you fought the fascists, ask Tony Blair what he would do concerning EU Citizens paperless like illegal immigrants, claiming their rights not to be the impostor just to cover up the good tradition of bribery and blackmail.

This is from the office of Tony Blair, after the EU sent lawsuit to Italy (pag 209).

This is from your PM Boris Johnson (pag 231)...

This is from the President of the Italian Republic (183).

And this is from secret police (pag 221), making territorial bans on YouTube videos repeating on the internet the lawsuit the courts of justice sweep into the afterlife [A28].

What kind of labour are you, a new labour Mr Starmer?

Also Mussolini was a new socialist like you. And the reformation of the churches was more about rights and freedoms than religion.

What about my rights not to be the impostor in order to cover up the Administrative horrors of this alternative system of values, the moral foundation of fascism that still today vanishes people into thin air, paperless like illegal immigrants within the EU border?

I have no rights to hire a lawyer because I have no passport, and the solicitor provided by the Citizen Advice Bureau told me to conform to the will of the Consul and be paperless...

What a bigotry Mr Starmer, what a bigotry!

And what a misery no professor, no member of parliament are able to tell one democratic value that has ever been a Catholic value in History, and still believe to be democrats and well educated [A41][W62].

But I am not the impostor, and making people paperless is criminal [A45]. So I report racist motivated hate crimes, violence and coercion against the victims, EU Citizens you have made paperless, victims refusing to be the scapegoat of your alternative system of values. I like to report the torture, the entrapment you force against the victims with coercion and violence to cover up the administrative horrors you organise, and the incitement to commit a crime as the only way out. This is slavery and torture as it was stated by barrister Paul Diamond, and what Tony Blair did was to cover the administrative horrors with more recommendations, violence and coercion. Ask the Italian Ambassador why they never complained about this situation of political and religious convenience?

With best regards

Luca

The 3rd January 1925 Mussolini said that - the democratic values have to be found in the Catholic tradition - then he dismissed the parliament, the political parties, the freedom of press, made the Catholic Religion the Religion of State and persecuted the oppositions as Apostates of the faith and enemies of the State.

Nevertheless, the democratic values like the freedom of choice and the secular value of Justice are the result of the emancipation from the absolute power of the church, and have never been catholic values but catholic heresies to be persecuted and eradicated with recurrent intellectual cleansing.

As evidence, there is no way to tell one democratic value that has ever been a catholic value in history, but how to interpret the evidence that all the Universities are disguising the democratic values as Catholic Legacy, and propaganda at a geopolitical scale this alternative system of values for some students, while the others are blackmailed for the confirmation of their true academic career from state universities, become paperless like impostors and their lawsuit are swept into the afterlife for Justice.

Unfolding as casual conversations in the park concerning significant contradictions regarding the origin of fascism and civil rights, this book aims to explore and challenge the very syllabus and school programs through first hand experiences and research.

About the Author

Italian graduated at Verona University, paperless in the UK after receiving PhD offer, was imposed to be the scapegoat with coercion and violence in order to cover up administrative tradition of horrors, bribery and blackmails, also preventing him from the rights to hire a lawyer.
